BRITISH RETIRE AT ONE POINT; GAIN ELSEWHERE

Gen. Haig's Men Fail to Hold Gains on Cambrai Road, but Capture Farm in New Attack Near St. Quentin.

Fighting Goes On Under Summer Haze and Is More Intense Than on Somme Last Year.

Machine Guns Posted in Trees Retard English Advance in Center of Long Front.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, May 4.—The British last night made progress northwest of St. Quentin and northwest of Harcourt, capturing Malakoff Farm, the War Office announced today. On the Arras front, the British have maintained their hold on Fresnoy and all the positions captured in that neighborhood in yesterday's drive.

The British were compelled to fall back from the advanced positions captured yesterday in the neighborhood of Cherisy and astride the Arras-Cambrai road, the statement added. The official statement reads: "The village of Fresnoy and our positions which we had captured north and south of it were subjected to severe hostile counter-attacks yesterday evening. All our positions in this neighborhood were maintained and the enemy repulsed."

"Severe fighting has taken place in the neighborhood of Bullecourt. East of the village the enemy made a heavy counter-attack last night upon the sector of the Hindenburg line captured by us yesterday. The attempt failed completely and the enemy's attacking troops lost heavily."

"Fighting also took place during the night in the neighborhood of Cherisy, and astride the Arras-Cambrai road. In these areas our troops were compelled to fall back from the advanced positions captured by them during the day. "We made further progress during the night northwest of St. Quentin and northeast of Harcourt, where we captured the Malakoff farm."

Polish Forces Contested. Reuter's correspondent at British headquarters telegraphs this morning that on the south bank of the Scarpe the British pushed forward, overcoming the resistance of machine-gun posts which abounded all along this ground. They have established themselves in the sunken road, near Pevels Mill, which has a dip of nine feet and offers possibilities for offense and defense. At Roux, which is directly opposite this new position, the Germans still remain in the fiercely contested chemical works, but the British have a series of posts astride the ground east of this place.

East of Bullecourt, the Reuter correspondent adds, the British are in strength right across the Hindenburg line, a sector of which they hold running in the direction of Quent. Thence their line forms a sort of disjointed salient around all but the northern extremity to Bullecourt, which is reported to be full of Germans.

The British gains in and around Fresnoy have been consolidated. The struggle for Oppy continues and has produced a striking situation north of the village. A considerable part of the line being at present untenable for either side, owing to the mutual concentrations of machine guns.

German Use Large Reserves. The official report from headquarters in France last night said: "Fierce fighting occurred throughout the day from west of Quent to north of Fresnoy, four miles east of the village of Vimy. The enemy again employed large reserves of men and guns and delivered repeated counter-attacks practically along the whole battle front. These hostile forces suffered heavily from our concentrated artillery and machine gun fire."

"In the fact of obstinate resistance, our troops this morning penetrated a sector of the Hindenburg line west of Quent and have maintained themselves there all day against constant and powerful attacks."

"Further progress also was made in the neighborhood of Cherisy, astride the Arras-Cambrai bank of the Scarpe, where the position, which changed hands frequently and was defended with great determination, now are in our possession."

Village of Fresnoy Taken. "On the left of the battle front we captured the village of Fresnoy and the enemy's positions south and north of Fresnoy on a front of two miles. We also gained a footing in the enemy's trench system north of Oppy. Progress was made at other points and the fighting continues."

"In addition to the enemy's severe losses in killed and wounded, we captured several hundreds of German prisoners."

"Great activity continues in the air. Four German airplanes were brought down yesterday in the aerial fighting and another hostile machine was shot down in our lines. In addition, our airplanes drove down five other enemy machines."

JOIN THE NAVY AND SEE THE SEA.

JOHN D. DYER'S FACITIOUS REMARK ON HEARING DEFENDANT HAS JOINED NAVAL RESERVES.

Thomas J. McLaughlin, of 415 Easton avenue, pleaded guilty to coloring oleomargarine in the Federal Court today and was fined $3000, which he paid.

Oscar Holzbog, a baker, of 6118 Easton avenue, who was jointly indicted with McLaughlin, joined the Missouri Naval Reserves a short time ago and was not in court. When Assistant United States Attorney White explained that Holzbog was at present at the Great Lakes Station in Chicago, Judge Dyer facetiously remarked:

"Well, it would probably be just as well for him to go up there and get shot as to face this court."

Holzbog will be brought to trial next week if the Navy Department will permit it. Otherwise the case will probably be postponed until after the war.

MASS MEETING HERE TO WELCOME FRENCH MISSION

Marshal Joffre and Vice Premier Viviani to Deliver Addresses Sunday Night.

FLAG PRESENTATION

Hero of Marne Will Bestow Emblem to New Fifth Missouri Regiment.

Arrangements have been completed for a public mass meeting at the Coliseum Sunday night to extend a great welcome to Field Marshal Joffre, Vice Premier Viviani, Admiral Chocheprat and the other members of the French War Commission. Speeches in French will be delivered by Marshal Joffre and M. Viviani, and then interpreted.

The change in plans, which made possible the Coliseum meeting, came as a result of an alteration in the time schedule of the French party's itinerary. Instead of arriving Monday morning, as originally intended, the distinguished visitors will reach St. Louis at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, giving them an additional 12 hours in the city. Their departure will be at noon Monday, as originally planned.

The arrangements for the mass meeting were made last night by the Executive Committee, of which Selden P. Spencer is chairman. In response to a request from Marshal Joffre and M. Viviani that they be given an opportunity to meet the people of St. Louis, the Coliseum was opened by 7 p. m.

The Coliseum will be open to the general public, so that there will be accommodations for at least 12,000 persons. The doors will open by 7 p. m. or earlier, and exercises will begin at 8 o'clock. Upon its arrival the French war mission will be driven immediately to the Coliseum.

It is expected that 2000 school children will be in seats to the rear of the platform. They will sing songs and wave flags. The Coliseum will be elaborately decorated with French and American flags.

One of the interesting features of the meeting will be the presentation by Marshal Joffre in the name of the French Society of St. Louis of a United States flag to the officers of the new Missouri Fifth Regiment, now being recruited. On behalf of the French Society, a flag will be handed to Marshal Joffre by Eugene Falk, veteran of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870, the past president of the St. Louis Society. The Marshal of France will then present the flag to the regiment.

Chairman Spencer said today that he hoped St. Louis would respond to this opportunity to extend a great public welcome to the distinguished guests. He hopes every seat in the Coliseum will be occupied.

Members of the Reception Committee, mounted police and cavalry will meet the special train at some point not publicly announced and escort them to the Coliseum over a part of the route laid out for the Monday morning parade.

Where Night Will Be Spent. After the Coliseum meeting, some of the members of the French Commission will go to the home of Third Assistant Secretary of State Breckinridge Long, at 1545 Lindell boulevard, to spend the night, and others will be taken to the Hotel Jefferson. Some members of the commission may spend the night on board the special train and car provided for them by the United States Government.

Although the local commission has no definite information as to which visitors will stop at the Long home, it is presumed that Marshal Joffre and M. Viviani will go there. The British War Mission, as is known, is using Long's home in Washington as its headquarters.

transmit the following communication:

"The provisional Government of Russia published on April 27 a manifesto to Russian citizens, wherein it explained the views of the Government of Russia regarding the objects to be attained in the war. This Minister of Foreign Affairs instructs me to communicate to you the contents of the document referred to and to add the following considerations:

"Our enemies have striven lately to show discord among our allies by propagating abroad reports regarding the alleged intention of Russia to conclude a separate peace with the central Powers. The text of the document annexed will form the best refutation of such intentions. The general principles therein enunciated by the provisional Government are in entire agreement with the ideas which have been expressed repeatedly up to quite recently by eminent statesmen of the allied countries.

"These principles were expressed loudly also in the words of the President of our ally, the great overseas republic. The Russian Government and the old regime certainly was not prepared to appreciate and share these ideas as to the liberating character of the war, the establishment of a stable basis for pacific co-operation of nations, the freedom of oppressed peoples, etc., but emancipated Russia can now use language which will be understood by modern democracies and hasten to add her voice to that of her allies.

"The declaration of the provisional Government being imbued with the new spirit of free democracy naturally cannot afford the least pretext for assumption that the demolition of the old structure has entailed any weakening on the part of Russia in the common struggle of all the allies. On the contrary, the nation's determination to bring the world war to a decisive victory has been accentuated owing to the sense of responsibility which is shared by all in general and each one of us in particular.

"This spirit has become still more active by the fact that it is concentrated on the immediate task, which touches everybody so closely, of driving back the enemy who invades our territory. It is understood, and the annexed document so expressly states, that the provisional Government, in safeguarding the right acquired for our country, will maintain a strict regard for its engagements with the allies of Russia.

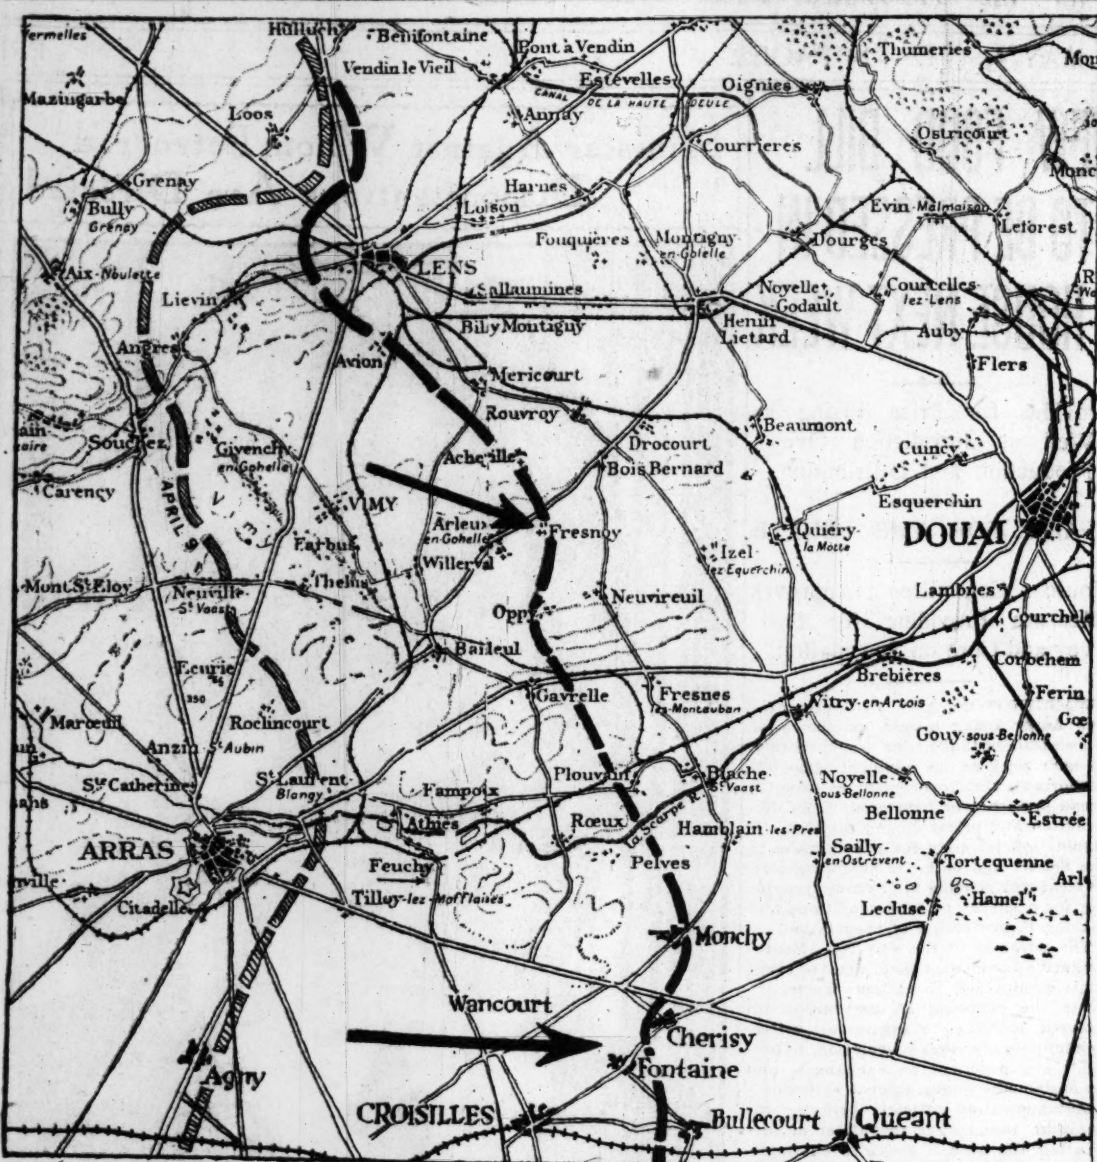

"Firmly convinced of the victorious issue of the present war and in perfect agreement with our allies, the provisional Government is likewise confident that the problems which were created by this war will be solved by the creation on a firm basis of a lasting peace and that, inspired by identical sentiments, the allied democracies will find means of establishing the guarantees and penalties necessary to prevent any recourse to sanguinary war in the future.

Extremist Organ Severs Criticism Note to Allies.
LONDON, May 4.—A Farad dispatch says that the Novaya Zhizn, the organ of the Social Democrats, and other extreme left newspapers severally criticize Foreign Secretary Milukoff's note to the allies, asserting Russia's determination to vigorously push the war against Germany. The note will be discussed this evening, at an extraordinary general meeting of the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Delegates.

Allied Missions in U. S. Watching Russian Developments.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—The disturbances in Russia are commanding the closest attention of the Government here and of the allied missions. They also have served to direct attention again to the personnel of the American commission for the head of which President Wilson has selected Elihu Root.

No further announcements have been made of the time of the commission's departure, nor its full personnel. There is no outward evidence here that the attacks on the appointment of Root have to do with the delay or that there will be any change in the appointment. Public men who approve the appointment of Root point out that Socialists in the United States not identified with the group known as German Socialists have endorsed his selection.

8 STRIKEBREAKERS ARRESTED AFTER A CHASE IN STREETS

Shots Fired During Roundup of Men Said to Have Tried to Take $100 From Leader.

Eight strike breakers from Hillsboro, Ill., started a disturbance at Broadway and Pine street at 11 a. m. today and were arrested, after an exciting chase through the business center, in which several shots were fired in the air by police.

The strike breakers had been employed by the Schramm Glass Co. of Hillsboro, which has an office in the Federal Reserve Bank Building. Oscar R. Rodman, one of the strike breakers, drew $100 from the company, and he said the others tried to take the money away from him. The men started to run west on Pine street, pursued by policemen. Frank Wilson leaped on to a street car to try to escape, but a policeman followed him and caught him as he was trying to get out at the front door. The others were rounded up near Eighth and Pine streets.

Fund for Blind Totals $43,000.
Additional contributions of approximately $280 were received yesterday in the fund being raised to continue the factories in St. Louis and the blind, bringing the total contributed to about $43,000. A fund of $50,000 is sought. The receipts of eight motion picture theaters Monday night will be added to the fund.

Fifty-Fifty

As the clown in the circus says, "HERE we are again," with a big show of enough advertising from the St. Louis merchants yesterday, Thursday, to EXACTLY EQUAL the volume of advertising carried on the same day, under the same conditions, by the Globe-Democrat, Republic, Star and Times.

ALL 4 ADDED TOGETHER.

Think this over. It is worth while.

Beating ALL COMPETITION is an old story for the POST-DISPATCH—it is a regular stunt to swamp ALL COMBINED COMPETITION at least once or twice each week. Thursday's triumph is, therefore, but one more example of the PROVEN FACT that St. Louis merchants KNOW that the pulling-power of the POST-DISPATCH ALONE is greater THAN ALL OF THE OTHERS BUNCHED TOGETHER.

BRITISH FALL BACK ON CAMBRAI ROAD; GAIN NEAR ST. QUENTIN

Chines out of control and destroyed four German kite balloons. One of our machines is missing. Reuter's correspondent at headquarters last night telegraphed that the British made less progress in the center of the front, up the valley of the Scarpe, owing to the intensity of concealed machine gun fire.

Machine guns were perched in trees at various heights while lines of uncut wire were discovered in gulleys which concealed them from direct observation as well as from the searching effect of the barrage.

TERRIFIC FIGHTING GOES ON UNDER A SUMMER HAZE
Battlefields Dry and Dusty and Combat Is More Intense Than on the Somme.

By Associated Press.
BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, via London, May 4, 10:30 a. m.—The Germans made desperate counter attacks throughout the entire night against the positions won by the British yesterday, but were everywhere repulsed.

All through the brilliant moonlit night and again today British soldiers were fighting on a wide front, tenaciously holding the positions won yesterday in the face of the headlong counter attacks of their foe. In some places the fighting ebbed and flowed as in the old days in the Somme campaign, when the casualties inflicted on the enemy were regarded as more important than specific gains of ground. The present fighting, however, is more intense.

The latest reports from the battle front show that the Hindenburg line was pierced both northwest and southeast of Bullecourt for long distances. The Germans bitterly defended their strong points and attempted several times to retake them, but once the British were in the deep trenches they held on.

The men fought so steadily that there was neither the usual excitement of food. The battlefields were very dry and dusty, however, and water bottles had to be replenished time and again, whenever it was possible to do so. Today the sun is shining again with genial spring warmth. It was one of those rare days when all nature seems to cry out with the joy of living. Yet under the early summer haze which is gathering about the battle zone the grim business of war goes on with an ever-increasing toll of dead and dying.

Berlin Admits British Successes at Bullecourt.
BERLIN, via London, May 4.—British troops yesterday succeeded only in taking Fresnoy and "small portions of our foremost trenches near Bullecourt," says the official statement issued today by the army headquarters staff.

The battle against the English, the statement adds, is continuing today. The Germans took more than 1000 prisoners.

Strong English cavalry forces, the announcement declares, have been assembled southeast of Arras.

French Pilots Bring Down Five German Airplanes.
PARIS, May 4.—Further progress was made by the French last night in the wood west of Mont Cornille on the Champagne front, says today's announcement. French pilots yesterday brought down five German airplanes.

CHILE DENIES REPORT OF SECRET ALLIANCE WITH GERMANY

Gives Out Note of Warning to Germany on U-Boats; Report of Break Also Denied.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—On instructions from his Government, Ambassador Aldunate of Chile submitted to the State Department yesterday an emphatic denial of a report from Buenos Aires that a secret alliance exists between Chile and Germany, accompanying the statement with a copy of Foreign Minister Huidobro's note warning Germany that Chile could not submit to the submarine campaign restrictions.

Foreign Minister Huidobro's note to the German Government said: "Such measures in the opinion of the Chilean Government mean a restriction of the right of neutrals which the country cannot submit to because it would be contrary to ancient principles consecrated to the welfare of countries foreign to the armed conflict. The acceptance on the part of Chile of the measures taken by Germany would separate her also from that line of strict neutrality which she has followed during the present conflict."

Chile in consequence reserved to herself the liberty of action to claim respect of all her rights in the moment in which may be committed any act of hostility against her ships.

LONDON, May 4.—A Berlin dispatch by way of Amsterdam denies the unofficial report in the Dutch papers that the Chilean Minister at Berlin has asked for his passports.

BRITISH MISSION EXTENDS CONFERENCES IN CAPITAL

Consult House Committee, Defense Council and Secretary Lansing on Supplies.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The British mission today began wider and more public conferences with American officials. Rear Admiral Sir Dudley R. S. de Chair conferred with the House Naval Committee and Foreign Secretary Balfour conferred with the Council of National Defense. The conferences were to afford opportunity for questions by the American officials.

Mr. Balfour after a visit to Secretary Lansing went to a joint meeting of British embassy and mission members which took up shipping, food and munitions.

Now that the extent and means of American co-operation has been outlined it is necessary for the various interests within the British mission to agree among themselves as to the proportionate share each shall receive.

Invitations from all parts of the country are pouring in upon the mission but as yet no final plans have been made.

BRITISH LABOR LEADERS ARRIVE AT AMERICAN PORT

Will Proceed to Washington and Advise American Federation on Course During the War.

NEW YORK, May 4.—British labor leaders, appointed by their Government as official advisers to American labor in the conduct of the war, arrived in the United States today and will proceed at once to Washington.

The delegation includes the Rt. Hon. Charles W. Bowerman and J. H. Thomas, members of the British Parliament, and H. W. Garrod, who represents the Labor party in the Bureau of Munitions. They have come at the invitation of the American Federation of Labor.

The labor representatives said emphasis would be placed in their conferences with Americans on the necessity of avoiding blunders made by British labor bodies, so that the United States might profit by the mistakes and that it would be pointed out that the questions of hours and wages should be subordinated during the war.

TARNOWSKI SAILS, TELLS COUNTRYMEN TO OBEY U. S. LAWS

Unreceived Austrian Ambassador Says: "Honor Land in Which You Earn Livelihood."

REGRETS FORCED RETURN

Has No Idea When War Will End, but Says Germany Will Have Food.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Count Adam Tarnowski von Tarnow, the unreceived Austrian Ambassador to the United States, before sailing today for his home land issued farewell greetings to his countrymen here and advice to "honor the land whose hospitality they enjoy and in which they earn their livelihood."

"Please convey to my countrymen my farewell greetings," read a statement given by the Ambassador to Morris Bukor, Counselor here to the Austrian consulate. "During my brief sojourn I did not come into contact with them, but I know from previous experience that they are sober, industrious and law-abiding. I take with me the firm conviction that my countrymen will also hereafter honor the land whose hospitality they enjoy and in which they earn their livelihood, and they will readily obey its laws to the full extent."

Speaking to newspaper men, Count Tarnowski said that he could not "but express my sincere regret at leaving your nice country."

"I suppose," he continued, "I am a unique figure in the history of diplomatic relations between countries in the midst of such a tragic moment, but while never having the opportunity to present my credentials, I still conducted the official business of the Austrian embassy."

"When will the war end? No man can say how long the war will last, but Germany will have food."

NILO PECANHA IS APPOINTED FOREIGN MINISTER OF BRAZIL

Former President Accepts Portfolio Succeeding Dr. Muller, Who He Replaces.

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, May 4.—Nilo Pecanha, former President of Brazil, has been appointed Foreign Minister in succession to Dr. Lauro Muller, resigned. He has accepted the portfolio. Dr. Lauro Muller, resigned, has accepted the portfolio. Dr. Lauro Muller, resigned, has accepted the portfolio.

In his letter of resignation, Dr. Muller says that he had retained office up to the present only because he did not wish to leave the President while Congress was not in session and with all responsibility for action rested on the executive.

Paiz addresses an appeal to Congress exhorting it to harmonize Brazilian policy with that of President Wilson and to give effect to the plan of the President in the struggle for humanity.

The newspapers say that the President offered Dr. Muller another portfolio or an ambassadorship, but that the offer was declined.

JOINT CUT IN PRICE OF WHEAT BY U. S. AND CANADA PLANNED

Canadian Minister of Finance Says Nations Must Act Together for Effective Regulation.

OTTAWA, May 4.—Announcement was made in Parliament yesterday by Sir Thomas White, Minister of Finance, that plans are under way for joint action by Canada and the United States to reduce the price of wheat.

Sir Thomas said the price of flour, wheat or any other necessary food could not be regulated by the Canadian Government alone. To be successful the regulation of food prices must be the simultaneous action of the United States and Canada, he declared.

He stated that Sir George Foster, the Canadian Minister of Commerce, now in Washington, is discussing with the American authorities the fixing of maximum prices for wheat on the whole of the North American continent.

Sir Thomas will leave for Washington at the end of this week to relieve Sir George Foster.

M'ADOO CONFERS WITH BANKERS

Goes to New York to Get Their Views on War Loan.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The Government's loan to finance the war was discussed here today between William G. M'Adoo, Secretary of the Treasury, and Wall Street bankers. The Cabinet member was the guest at a luncheon at the Bankers' Club.

M'Adoo told newspaper men he came to get the views of as many financial men and other interests as he could, in order that the Government might obtain the best possible results. The exact amount of subscriptions thus far to the first $2,000,000,000 offering could not be announced yet, M'Adoo said, but he believed it had been oversubscribed.

AUTO ARRESTS TO BE ORDERED

More Than 3500 Owners Are Without City Licenses.

License Collector Alt began today to check the names of St. Louis automobile owners who have not yet obtained licenses for their cars for this year, and will ask the police to arrest those who have not complied with the law.

FRESNOY CAPTURED BY CANADIANS AFTER BITTER FIGHTING LASTING ALL DAY

Hindenburg Line Rolled Back Over 600-Yard Line Near Queant, and German Emergency Trenches Are Threatened.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, May 3, via London.—After four days of calm, fighting on a large scale was resumed along a wide front today and more important strategic points fell into British hands, including the village of Fresnoy, several miles north of the Scarpe River, and the ground about Chateauvieux.

Between Fontaine-les-Croisilles and Bullecourt about 600 yards more of the original Hindenburg line, which ran from Queant in a northwesterly direction toward Arras, was penetrated and rolled up. This fighting was close to the Queant-Hindenburg line new emergency trench system, extending north from there to Drocourt. Work on this new system is proceeding with feverish haste, according to prisoners, and the stubborn resistance the Germans now are offering is to prevent the necessary work of their occupying the new line before it is ready for prolonged defensive action.

Fighting on 18-Mile Front.
Today's range of operations covered virtually 18 miles, although the pressure was not exerted over this entire front. There was artillery activity at all points, however, and the stronger German positions were fairly deluged with shells.

The fighting began before dawn and continued throughout the day of sunshine. The troops moving to the firing line passed along roads whose overhanging trees were tipped with the first green leaves of spring. The fields back of the battle front were yellow with cowpods and dandelions; birds were singing joyous melodies. A warm east wind stirred up great clouds of dust, and the men went white with fine chalk powder.

As the marching columns reached the battle zone, however, all was changed. The trees became black skeletons; the fair fields had been pitted and scarred under the shell fire. The only melodies were deep-throated roars of cannon, the whine of shells and the whistle of bullets.

Fight Begins at Dawn.
Under the light of a May moon the British guns roared the artillery preparation at intervals during the night, but it was not until the lunar rays had disappeared that the real bombardment began. In its intensified form it was of short duration. Then the guns settled into a barrage which the troops stole out from their forward trenches or shallow shelters.

It was still half an hour before dawn, and the morning mists gave a deeper density to the darkness. There was stiff fighting from the very first, and everywhere along the line the Germans offered desperate resistance. Since the battle of Arras began on Easter Monday the Germans have concentrated great numbers of guns opposite the British and lately they have been firing with almost reckless extravagance. Much of the shooting has been absolutely blind since the British took all the high ridges, the Germans being unable to get more than momentary observation with slippers of gas balloons.

Canadians Take Fresnoy.
This morning the British creeping barrage fire, which swept like a great trellis work of exploding shells in front of the attacking troops, was met by a furious defensive curtain of fire, and for half an hour or more the artillery display was one of the most wonderful seen during the war. At the north of the line the Canadian troops who occupied Arelux several days ago pushed forward and took Fresnoy.

Arelux and Fresnoy had been swathed in flames.

COLLEGE HONOR FOR JOFFRE

The Lafayette, in Pennsylvania, to Confer Degree Upon Him.

EASTON, Pa., May 4.—Lafayette College, one of the greatest memorials to the Marquis de Lafayette in America, will confer on Field Marshal Joffre and the marquis de Chambrun, a great-grandson of Lafayette, the honorary degree of doctor of laws. This action was taken by the board of trustees yesterday.

Through the State Department the matter will be officially laid before the members of the French mission, and the president of the college is empowered to arrange for a special occasion when the college will do honor to the distinguished Frenchman.

BRITISH SHIP PICKS UP ROCKINGHAM GUNNERS

Missing Boat From Torpedoed American Steamer With Fourteen Men, Found.

LONDON, May 4.—The admiralty reports that the missing boat from the American steamer Rockingham, with all 14 men, has been picked up by a British steamer. This life boat contained Third Officer McKenny and 12 American gunners.

Capt. Charles Edwards of the Rockingham said in an interview at Liverpool that the submarines in the attack on his ship dived almost as soon as they were observed and that the ship was torpedoed a few minutes after the lifeboats were trained on the spot where the periscopes were expected to reappear.

Captain Comes in Barefoot.
Capt. Edwards was barefoot when he arrived at Londonderry, Ireland, late Wednesday night, and 12 members of his crew who were with him were scantily clad. They were cared for by the American Consul.

Capt. Edwards said that he sighted two submarines on Tuesday afternoon at a distance of five miles and attempted to escape by steering a zigzag course. A torpedo struck the ship near the engine room on the starboard side and killed two men. One of the vessel's four lifeboats was smashed, but the others got clear just before the steamer sank.

Refused to Tow Boats.
One of the submarines came close to a lifeboat and asked the destination and tonnage of the Rockingham. Edwards refused to answer, and the submarine toward land, but the man pretended not to understand although he spoke good English. He finally refused to give any help, told the refugees they could get ashore as best they could and the U-boat submerged.

"We were hit at 2 p. m., Tuesday, 180 miles from land," continued Capt. Edwards. "I was on the bridge at the time. Five minutes before the torpedoing I noticed through the haze two specks on the horizon, one on the port bow and the other on the starboard bow. I immediately called them to the attention of the gunners, who were at their posts both fore and aft, and they immediately trained their guns in the direction indicated. The visibility was so bad it was impossible for any of us to say whether they were submarines or patrol boats."

"While all eyes were straining through their glasses to penetrate the haze, both the specks disappeared. Then we knew they were submarines. We were already steering a zig-zag course and the gunners were ready at the sight of any target to fire on the enemy. Suddenly there came a terrific explosion, the results of which made it impossible to handle the guns. Our ship sank in less than 20 minutes. The gun crew on the Rockingham was in charge of Chief Petty Officer Arthur Wood."

The three lifeboats kept together until daylight when one got separated. A patrol rescued the men in the two boats which had remained in company, but could not find the third.

LEADING PARTIES SPENT $61,115 IN CITY ELECTION

Republican Expenditures Were $42,631 and the Democratic $18,484.

KOELN TOPPED LIST

Collector Put Up $1500 for G. O. P. and Otto Stifel $1000.

Itemized accounts filed according to law with Recorder of Deeds Joy show that the Republican and Democratic organizations expended a total of $61,115 in the primaries and the regular election last month, when a Mayor, Comptroller and 14 Aldermen were chosen. The Republicans capturing them all. The Republican campaign fund, amounting to $46,977.70, of which $42,631.12 was disbursed, was the largest ever raised in this city at a municipal election.

These figures do not include sums, which have not yet been made public, showing the amounts spent by the 86 or more candidates at the primaries and by the nominees over and above their donations to the various party organizations.

A statement filed yesterday by the Republican City Committee showed that its outlay in the primary, and regular election was $33,237.28, to which is to be added an expenditure of $383.84 by the Kiel indorsees, who assisted in the nomination and re-election of Mayor Kiel. The total is $42,631.12. After the election the Republicans had a balance of $4275.58.

Democrats Spent $18,484.

The campaign collections of the Democratic City Committee amounted to $1722 and the disbursements to $2049.48. In addition, the Connett-for-Mayor organization received contributions of $8380 and expended $2320.05. The total collections for the two Democratic organizations were $18,532, and the total expenditures $18,484.52, leaving a balance of $47.47.

The largest single contribution to the Democratic City Committee's campaign fund was $700, given by August Schaffly, father-in-law of William C. Connett, Democratic candidate for Mayor. Rolla Wells, G. H. Walker, Harry B. Hawes, George L. Allen and Edward F. Goltz, gave $500 each. James V. Player, candidate for re-election as Comptroller, gave $300 to the Democratic City Committee; J. D. Perry Francis and Daniel G. Taylor contributed $250 each, and donations of $100 each were made by Gov. Gardner, Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State, Postmaster Selph and others.

Connett's statement of his personal disbursements in the campaign shows that they amounted to $200. Dr. John H. Simon, one of Connett's opponents in the primary, spent $462.40.

On the Republican side, the largest individual donation was $1500, given by Collector Edmund Koeln to the Republican City Committee. Otto Stifel, brewer, gave $1000. The 14 Republican candidates for Aldermen contributed $1500 each, or $7000 in all; Louis Nolte, candidate for Comptroller, gave $600; and Building Commissioner McKelvey gave $650. Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein gave $450 to the City Committee and $1000 to the Kiel indorsees. Mayor Kiel, Julius Haller and Howard Sidener, rivals for the Republican mayoralty nomination, gave $200 each to the committee.

Some of Minor Contributors.

Other contributors to the Republican fund were: Holath Commissioner Stark, $500; Henry Kortjohn, $500; G. B. Webster, $500; John Schmoll, chairman of the Republican City Committee, $500; Edward Forstel, $500; and Charles Hertendorn, chairman of the Efficiency Board, $25. Gifts of $200 each were made by T. K. Niedringhaus, C. E. Mohrstadt, Adolph Troll, and Recorder of Deeds Joy. "Hank" Weeke contributed $100; and among those donating $50 each were George Weinberger, W. K. Bixby, Eugene Chaudet, David May, H. C. Koenig, P. A. Schmoll, C. L. Holman and William Bagnell.

Contributions ranging from $2.50 to $25 were obtained from city employees. The contribution was in the ratio of the employee's salary. The largest allowance for election expenses to any one ward was $50 to the Thirteenth Ward, which Chairman Schmoll represents.

The cost to the city of holding the primaries and regular election was $72,706, including $57,500 paid to judges and clerks and for rental of polling places. The primaries were held on a day set aside for revision, and in this way $17,500 was saved.

Long Home at Which Heads of French Mission Will Stop While Here

NO. 6145 LINDELL BOULEVARD.

CENSORSHIP MEASURE DEFEATED IN HOUSE

Clause of Espionage Bill Stricken Out by Vote of 220 to 167.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The House by a vote of 220 to 167 today struck out the censorship section of the administration's espionage bill.

Postmaster-General Burleson made a futile attempt to get enough votes for the censorship section.

At the same time the Senate was debating the espionage bill and President Wilson's approval of the export embargo section was read there.

Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, author of the House motion to strike out the censorship section, during the debate today said: "Let us take the people into our confidence. They are the sovereigns. This is their war and they have to make the sacrifices."

Representative Kahn today offered his amendment to create a Board of Censors to be composed of trained newspaper men and representatives of the State, War and Navy departments.

In closing argument for the censorship section, Chairman Webb of the Judiciary Committee declared he had just received word from President Wilson that the section would be necessary to the defense and success of the country.

"Was that message brought down by Postmaster-General Burleson, who is always snooping around here?" demanded Representative Norton of North Dakota.

Webb launched into an attack on newspapers, who, he said, were not standing by the President.

Power would have been given the President under the section to suppress by proclamation any news relating to national defense.

In a futile effort to save the section, Webb amended it to only prohibit "publication" and not "communication" of news suppressed by presidential order.

Speaker Clark, Republican Leader Mann and Representative Jeanette Rankin voted to strike out the section. Democratic Leader Kilglin was a prominent advocate of the section. Amendments by Representative Kahn of California to provide for a board of censors and one by Representative McCormick of Illinois to limit suppression of news to movement of troops and ships and similar information were defeated.

Speaker Clark, Republican Leader Mann, Representative Kahn of California, Representative McCormick of Illinois, Representative McCormick of Illinois and a dozen other Representatives attacked the censorship section yesterday. They declared unequivocally that they were opposed to any proposal to muzzle the press.

Other than Chairman Webb, Representative Dyer of St. Louis was the only member who defended the section. "We are at war," said Dyer, "and we do not know what may be necessary to keep information from getting to the enemy. The newspapers of the country in the main are honorable, but their writers are human and they are prone to err as others."

17 OF VACUUM CREW DEAD OF EXPOSURE

Fifteen of Eighteen Men in One Lifeboat Perished, Capt. Harris Says.

GLASGOW, Scotland, May 4.—S. S. Harris of the American tank steamer Vacuum, which was sunk by a German submarine Saturday, and four survivors from that steamer who landed with him on the Scottish coast, suffered terrible hardships after leaving their vessel and are now in a hospital for treatment. Only three out of 18 men in the Captain's boat survived their experiences, while in another boat in which there were nine men two died of exposure.

Capt. Harris, in talking with an Associated Press representative today, said that in less than three minutes after the torpedoing the entire complement of the ship, with the exception of the four of the engine room staff, who probably were killed by the explosion, were off the ship. During the afternoon the captain's boat capsized. Fortunately the men were able to right her, but about an hour later she again turned over, and this time four men perished.

It was intensely cold when night fell and 10 of the 14 men remaining in the boat died from exposure. The boat was overturned twice in the darkness and it was only by superhuman exertions that the sailors were able to right her each time and get aboard again. The second mate died soon after the last of these experiences.

About noon the next day, Capt. Harris came across the No. 3 boat. The captain and his comrades were transferred to the No. 3 boat, making up her crew to 10. They landed the next morning, but one of them died soon afterward.

MASS MEETING HERE TO WELCOME FRENCH MISSION

escorted by mounted police and cavalry, will meet the commissioners Monday morning and take them to the Missouri Athletic Association, where the breakfast will be held at 8:30 o'clock. It is expected that 800 men will attend the breakfast. The galleries of the dining room will be closed during the breakfast.

James W. Garneau, president of the M. A. A., let it be known that on account of the safety restrictions imposed by the secret service department, the lobby, stairways, galleries and approaches must be kept entirely clear during the breakfast. Members who cannot be identified by the doorman at the club will be admitted only on presentation of their cards.

With the galleries closed, only holders of breakfast tickets will have an opportunity to hear the speeches delivered after breakfast.

Street to Be Holed Off.

A part of Washington avenue will be roped off so that the commissioners and the members of the Reception Committee and holders of tickets may get into the building without being jostled by the crowd.

At the breakfast the French Society will present handsome bronze medals to Vice Premier Viviani and Marshal Joffre. The presentation, on behalf of the society, will be made by Gus V. R. Medlin, president. He will speak for five minutes in French.

Traffic on Locust street, between Jefferson and Olive, will be suspended from 7:30 p. m. until 9:30 p. m. Sunday, on account of the mass meeting at the Coliseum.

From the M. A. A. the French visitors will drive through the West End over the route announced yesterday in the Post-Dispatch.

MATURE MEN IN ESPECIAL DEMAND TO BE OFFICERS

They Will Have Preference in Selection of 10,000 to Drill First Army Draft.

CAMP PLANS OUTLINED

Work Which 40,000 Applicants in Attendance at Sixteen Places Will Undergo.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—An outline of plans for training and selecting the 10,000 officers for the first 500,000 troops raised by selective conscription was made public today by the War Department.

After three months' instruction at the training camps, the 10,000 officers for 18 infantry and two cavalry divisions will be selected on merit from the total of 40,000 to be trained and assigned to regiments which will be called to the colors a month or two later. The other 30,000 men who are found to be qualified will be commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps and called out for duty as needed.

For the first of their training the officer candidates will be organized into 14 infantry companies and drilled as such by regular and national guard officers, and such of their own number as may be qualified for command. Then they will be organized by individual fitness into nine infantry companies, three batteries of artillery and two troops of cavalry.

The department's statement lays great stress on the fact that mature men, schooled for responsible positions, will be sought, particularly in selecting the first 10,000. In later training camps younger men are expected to predominate.

While reports from all sections of the country indicate generous response to the call for candidates, and there is a probability that each of the 16 camps will have its full quota of 500 men, it is pointed out that many of the candidates do not come up to the desired standard. Realizing that many desirable men may have been kept away because they could not afford to attend the camps, the War Department also announced that all who go into training will be paid $100 a month in addition to subsistence.

"The difficulties of administration in the selection of candidates are being adjusted," says the statement. "The question of pay for the men in training is expected to be settled shortly by Congress, with provisions for regular pay for reserve officers, and $100 a month for candidates. All men found fit for commission at the end of the three-month course will be commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps, even if not immediately needed for the first increment of troops."

There is room for improvement in the quality of the applicants. Men of proved capacity in civilian life are needed. Mature men of this kind, from 25 to 40, especially if unmarried, are urged to consider the matter at once and enroll for the first series of camps. There is plenty of room for men of the right qualities."

In a supplementary statement it was pointed out that the camps offer opportunity for men under 27 years of age to obtain commissions in the regular army. At the end of the three-month course will be held for appointments as Second Lieutenants in the regular army.

The War Department wants 4000 of these officers for the expanded regular army, in addition to the 10,000 officers whose special task will be the training of the new army of conscripted men. This means that the younger men, who are not likely to be commissioned to train the new army, will receive commissions and be called on later to serve in the expanded regular army. Those who have taken the course at the camps will be exempted from examination, if approved by the camp commander, in everything except adaptability and physical condition.

400 Here Pass Examinations for Officers' Reserve Training.

In St. Louis 400 men have passed the examinations as candidates for the officers' training camp at Fort Riley, Kan. Up to today Maj. Goode has accepted 307 applicants, and Capt. Caffey at the First Regiment armory has passed 159. None of these will be finally admitted to the camp except upon notification from the Commandant Fort Riley, Maj. Goode passed 45 candidates yesterday.

About 200 applications were received yesterday at the old Custom House, Third and Olive streets, making the total number thus far nearly 600. The examining officers will continue to test all comers until orders are received from the War Department. Fort Riley can accommodate 200 men, to be chosen from Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming.

15,000 Ship Builders Registered.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—In announcing that Department of Labor employment agencies throughout the country had registered 15,000 skilled shipbuilders for work on the great wooden merchant fleet, Secretary Wilson said this achievement was "only a minor step in the nation-wide mobilization of labor."

PUBLIC MEETING TONIGHT TO ASSIST NAVAL RECRUITING

Commander Root, Inspector in This District, Will Be One of the Speakers.

PICTURES TO BE SHOWN

Man Who Conducted Successful Campaign in Kansas City Will Also Speak.

BILL PROPOSES $30 A MONTH FOR ENLISTED MEN IN THE NAVY

WASHINGTON, May 4.—A $15 INCREASE in the pay of all enlisted men of the navy during the war was agreed upon yesterday by the House Navy Committee.

As an amendment to the naval bill it equalized the enlisted pay of the army and the navy, the army pay for privates being fixed at $30 a month in the appropriation bill just passed.

A public meeting designed to give impetus to naval recruiting in St. Louis will be held at the Wednesday Club, 406 Westminster place, at 8:30 o'clock this evening under the auspices of the local branch of the Navy League. Among the speakers will be Lieutenant Commander E. S. Root, Inspector of naval recruiting in the Central District; J. W. Stayton of Washington, representing the Navy League, and L. J. Smyth, who conducted a successful recruiting campaign in Kansas City for the Navy League.

One of the features of the gathering will be motion pictures on the development of the submarine which will be explained by Commander Root. A general call for the public to attend the meeting has been issued by Albert Bond Lambert, vice president of the local branch of the Navy League, Joseph O'Neill, chairman of the St. Louis organization, and Mrs. Virginia Chase Stedman, chairman of the Women's Division.

Those at Meeting.

Commander Root was guest at honor yesterday at a luncheon at the Missouri Athletic Association given by Lieut. E. D. Langworthy, in charge of the naval recruiting office here. The other guests were: J. W. Stayton, St. W. W. Stayton, assistant surgeon in the navy; Commander E. L. Bissett, Joseph Pultzer Jr., Lieut. Nelson Thomas, Fred G. Condit, John E. Tiedeman, James E. Smith, Joseph O'Neill, Paul Bakewell, Charles E. Bascom, Charles H. McKee, H. H. Wallace, J. J. Broderick, Albert von Hoffmann, D. D. Perry Francis, Albert Bond Lambert, Elmer Donnell, and L. J. Smyth.

Commander Root spoke at the luncheon. He declared that the charge that St. Louis was a "slacker" city was not true. He said the St. Louis average German-American was more American than some Americans and that the slowness in recruiting was not due to the large population in St. Louis of citizens of German stock.

Predicts Long War.

"St. Louisans," he said, "are so far removed from the scene of the conflict they do not seem to realize we are at war. There is a belief among the average citizen the war will soon end. It won't. The best-informed military and navy officials have said the war will last longer, and that the services of the army and navy will be required for one year of reconstruction at the close of the conflict."

The speaker said the recruiting results in Kansas City were due to the liberality of the business men, who gave tens and hundreds of dollars. This money was not handled by the navy, but was spent by the various organizations aiding recruiting.

"Chain System" in Recruiting.

The "chain system" of recruiting is to be adopted by the United States Navy. Orders were received at the navy recruiting office, Seventh and Chestnut streets, this morning by Lieut. Langworthy, providing that each recruit, as soon as he is enlisted and given condensed training, shall be returned to his home town, at the Government's expense, for the purpose of obtaining recruits.

Statistics show that the passage of the conscription bill has increased the number of applications and enlistments in the navy. During the week 525 men have applied and 142 have been enlisted. In addition, 299 men were told to return for further examination. Yesterday 170 men applied and 86 were accepted.

An innovation in recruiting will be an automobile truck with screen and moving pictures. The machine will be carrying pictures.

DANDRUFF SURELY DESTROYS THE HAIR

Offs—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only safe way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—ADV.

Girl Wig-Wags With Navy Flags on Street to Help Recruiting Niece of Former Battery Captain

MISS CARRIE MAY SCOTT.

PEDESTRIANS on the downtown streets who watch Miss Carrie May Scott wig-wagging with naval flags to a corps of blue jackets stationed a block away get a practical illustration of how sailors at sea communicate with each other.

Miss Scott, who is 17 years old, is willing to wig-wag 10 hours a day, if need be, to help Uncle Sam recruit sailors for his navy. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Scott of 5927 Garfield avenue.

Yesterday, on Washington avenue, four men who saw her working so earnestly for the cause of recruiting, inquired where to enlist and assured her they would call at 114 North Seventh street and sign their names to the naval roster.

Miss Scott says she will continue her work so long as the Naval Reserve Corps thinks it necessary, or she is willing to "do her bit" in any other way that she can be useful. She is a niece of E. O. Sangmeister, formerly Captain of Battery A, Her father formerly was a member of the battery. She will be present at the Navy League meeting at the Wednesday Club tonight.

WILL URGE AMERICA TO 'FIGHT FOR A PEACE THAT WILL LAST'

Former President Taft Says League to Enforce Peace Has Special Duty to Perform.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Former President William H. Taft, in a statement sent to state and district officers of the League to Enforce Peace, of which he is head, states that the league will "urge America to fight for a peace that will last." The statement, in part, follows: "It is of the very greatest importance that the high purpose of the war, as set forth by the President—to establish universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world itself at last free—shall be brought forward prominently and kept constantly before the country. Our Executive Committee believes that our league has a special fitness for performing this service, and, therefore, a special duty in the matter. The very object for which we are organized has become the purpose for which both our Government and our allies are waging the war."

Originator of Limited Train Dies.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—James R. Wood, formerly passenger traffic manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. and originator of the limited train in this country, died Wednesday at Atlantic City. He was 74 years old. Wood began his railroad career in 1869 as secretary to the superintendent of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad at Creston, Io.

ATTORNEY GENERAL PLANS TO CLEAN UP ST. CLAIR COUNTY

Illinois Official Says Lawlessness
Is Intolerable; Will Take Charge of Situation.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 4.—Attorney-General Brundage declared today that lawlessness as far as liquor selling, gambling and kindred vices are concerned has become intolerable in St. Clair County and that he considers that State's Attorney Hubert E. Schaumleffel and Sheriff Logan Mellon are not doing their duty. Consequently the Attorney-General will take charge of the situation, see that the laws are enforced and clean up the county, in which East St. Louis is the principal city.

Under his personal direction petitions are being drawn and preparations made to file suits in St. Clair County Circuit Court at Belleville, against all saloon keepers who are operating in the county without licenses and in defiance of law, and against owners of property in which such saloons are operated.

The suits will be filed under the general statute which declares saloons not operating to be nuisances and provides penalties of fine and imprisonment. Conviction carries with it an injunction against continuance of the nuisance.

If these suits fail in any particular to rid the county of illegal saloons, suit will be brought under the special abatement law which carries more severe penalties, including an embargo on the building so used, forbidding its rental for any purpose for one year. Under a Supreme Court decision, the abatement law can be invoked against ordinary saloons as well as disorderly houses, Brundage says. Final action will be taken by the Attorney-General in a direction which has been fully decided upon, but which he does not want disclosed at this time.

Received Many Protests.
The action which the Attorney-General is preparing to take to clean up the county is prompted by constant protests to his office against open and flagrant violations in the county of laws pertaining to the sale of liquor, gambling and disorderly houses. It is based on reports of investigators sent by him into the county and is made known by State's Attorney Schaumleffel ignoring the Attorney-General's repeated demands that the laws be enforced.

It was learned that the investigation began six weeks ago, when the Attorney-General received a letter from a mother who told him that two of her daughters had been lured into a disorderly house, run in connection with an unlicensed saloon, on the outskirts of East St. Louis, and that they were trying to get her other daughter. She had appealed to Mayor Mellon and to State's Attorney Schaumleffel, she wrote, without result. "I want to know," she wrote, "if there is any law in Illinois or any man in office who will enforce the law."

The letter, coupled with some complaints which had reached him before that, stirred the Attorney-General deeply. He immediately sent an investigator, who reported to him that the facts were as stated in the woman's letters and that the conditions which she described were general within two miles of East St. Louis and in other parts of the county.

Complaints of lawlessness in the county continued to reach the Attorney-General. He sent several investigators into the county. On the strength of partial reports by them he twice wrote to State's Attorney Schaumleffel at Belleville, calling to his attention saloons operating without license and calling upon him to institute prosecutions. Schaumleffel did not reply to either letter and took no steps to enforce the law, although he had record proof of violations of the law by the saloon keepers named in the Attorney-General's letters, consisting in pleas of guilty and the payment of nominal periodical fines for the privilege of operating in violation of the law.

Yesterday the Attorney-General wrote another letter to Schaumleffel, calling his attention again to the saloons cited in his former letters as operating without license, and naming two others.

The violators are as follows: "Chink" Dickey, Allen's Park, Bluffs; W. A. Schwartztrauber, end of Davis street ferry; Vinonge Bros., Carondelet and Waterloo turnpike, Himes place; Dupre; Swigler's place, end of Widney street ferry; Jim Hume, East Carondelet; John Peters, Forty-second and Bond streets, Centerville Township; John Kisselbach, Forty-second and Bond streets, Centerville Township.

The Peters place, the Attorney-General says in his letter of yesterday, is a rendezvous for disorderly women. "The open and flagrant violations in St. Clair County," the Attorney-General wrote, "of the State laws pertaining to the sale of liquor, and gambling, are the source of a constant protest to this office. It is your duty to institute prosecutions to end the unlawful and disgraceful conditions in your county and it is my request that you act at once. My previous letters above referred to were not accorded the courtesy of a reply. Will you be kind enough to inform me if you will enforce the laws in these cases of violations to which your particular attention is directed."

A mass of evidence against these and other unlicensed saloons has been gathered by the Attorney-General's investigators. Brundage has had his office force at work several days preparing the petitions. The proceedings will be under the State law which authorizes boards of supervisors to issue saloon licenses under prescribed conditions but prohibits the issuance by the County Board of any license to keep a dram-shop in any incorporated city, town or village or within two miles of the same, in which the corporate authorities have authority to license, regulate, restrain or prohibit the sale of liquors, or in any place where the sale of liquors is prohibited by law.

The power to issue licenses in incorporated cities, towns and villages is possessed by the authorities of these, but neither the County Board nor the town authorities can under the law issue licenses for saloons within two miles of any town.

For many years the authorities of St. Clair County have permitted saloons without limit to operate in the two-mile zones. Formerly indictments were returned at each term of court, but this formality is now dispensed with. A list of the unlicensed saloon keepers is kept by Louis Wangelin, a Belleville Justice of the Peace, and when the grand jury meets at each term of court he notifies them to come in and pay the price for being permitted to continue violating the law. The "fines" average about $70 for each period of four months. After the "costs" have been deducted an average of about $50 per saloon is turned over to the county. The saloon keeper gets a receipt which he exhibits at his road house as evidence that he has paid for the privilege of violating the law for four months. Formerly, when the office of the State's Attorney was on a fee basis, the fines went to swell the income of that official. The Post-Dispatch, as is known, exposed this condition and all saloons outside of the two-mile radius were compelled to take out licenses and the State's Attorney's office was put on a salary basis. Since that the fines of unlicensed saloon-keepers have gone into the County treasury.

The roadhouses in the two-mile strip have been the most disorderly in the county. Proprietors have acted on the theory that their receipts for fines authorized them to violate the law at will.

For the last two years such a roadhouse has operated within two miles of Lebanon, although that town was dry, and as a result there was a serious riot there recently. Information concerning which has been placed in the Attorney-General's hands.

Charges Against Officials.
Attorney-General Brundage has information that at one of the roadhouses a Deputy Sheriff is "plugging," introducing men to the women who make the place their rendezvous. At other places, he has learned, Deputy Sheriffs act as "bouncers."

The law on which the Attorney-General relies defines all unlicensed saloons as common nuisances, provides penalties of $50 to $100 and imprisonment for 30 to 60 days, and directs that the place proceeded against shall be closed. To obtain a conviction it is not necessary to state the name of a person to whom liquor has been sold.

The Attorney-General says he will proceed against every unlicensed saloon in the county as soon as the evidence can be arranged and the petitions prepared.

"I am determined," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "that the laws shall be enforced in St. Clair County. This is not a wet and dry question. It is a question of law and lawlessness. I have abundant evidence that the laws are violated with impunity. Conditions there are intolerable and a disgrace to the State, and State's Attorney Schaumleffel has ignored my demands that he do his duty. I intend to use the entire power of my office to put a stop to these conditions."

Rotary Club Re-Elects Giralda.
William A. Giralda, a member of the Board of Police Commissioners, was re-elected yesterday president of the Rotary Club at the annual banquet at the Planters Hotel. The organization voted $10 for the relief of the blind and a committee was appointed to help get recruits for the navy. The annual boat excursion of the club will be held June 9.

THRIFT COMMITTEE OBTAINS CATLIN TRACT FOR GARDEN

Products Will Be Turned Over to Provident Association for City's Poor.

500 PLOTS CULTIVATED

Applications of 800 Persons
Who Want Ground Are Still on File.

The Thrift Gardens Committee of the Women's Council has obtained permission from the Catlin estate to use the Catlin tract, which borders Forest Park on the north for a truck garden. The products obtained will be turned over to the Provident Association for distribution among the poor.

Within a few days the large tract will be plowed up by tractors and planted in beans, potatoes and other underground vegetables. The Catlin garden will be the largest in the city. Several others have been laid out notably in North St. Louis at Broadway and Bissell and at Broadway and Clarence, where the work of cultivation will be done by school children. Several gardens also are being projected in the vicinity of other school houses.

500 Gardens Established.
The Chamber of Commerce is co-operating with the women in the thrift garden movement. Frank Wiedemann is in charge of its part of the work. Experts are being employed to test the soil of the plots selected for gardens as to their availability for certain kinds of vegetables.

Large and small, 500 gardens have already been established in St. Louis, ranging in size from plots, 2x15 feet to 10-acre lots. The Thrift Committee has on file 800 applications from persons who want to cultivate ground. Seeds for all manner of vegetables are being sold by the committee at cost from its headquarters, 710 Locust street.

To Reach Home Economies.
St. Louis women also are interested in other activities tending toward the conservation of food. The Women's Central Committee on Food Conservation, whose headquarters are in the Boatmen's Bank Building has inaugurated a course in Home Economies at the Wednesday Club and it is planned to have lectures on the subject in all the public schools.

The Central Committee has outlined plans covering six months which will include lecture tours by speakers familiar with food values, practical demonstrations of meatless cooking and home economics. A fund of $10,000 of which $2500 has already been subscribed is being raised to carry out the work.

CITY CHILDREN TO GO TO FARMS

Germany to Place 1,000,000 for the summer. BERLIN, via London, May 4.—It is officially announced that 1,000,000 city children will be placed on farms this summer by the Government.

Fifty pfennigs (12 1/2 cents) daily will be paid for each child except in East Prussia, where the farmers who suffered from the Russian invasion have refused to pay.

Flag Raising at Wesley House.
A flag raising and May festival will be held in connection with the baby clinic at Wesley House, 3035 Bell avenue tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 p. m.

COME TO OFFER LIFE INSURANCE, NOT HIS LIFE

Solicitor Gets Shock When Albert Bond Lambert Hands Him Aero Corps Enlistment Blank.

Four young men were waiting for Albert Bond Lambert, who has been active in recruiting for the aviation service, when he reached his office, 2101 Locust street, yesterday afternoon.

Without stopping to be questioned by them, Lambert outlined briefly the requirements of the air service and gave them application blanks. Three thanked him and went away, but the fourth grew pale. In a trembling voice he asked whether the application blank gave him had turned him into a recruit for air duty. Lambert told him no, and he explained:

"That wasn't what I came to see you about at all. I'm a life insurance agent."

WAITER TELLS OF WIFE'S EXPERIENCE

Henry Houser Says He Did Not Expect Mate to Live Week Before She Began Taking Tanlac.

"I want to tell you what Tanlac has done for my wife," Henry Houser, a waiter at the Mercantile Club, who lives 2411 South Ninth street, St. Louis, told the Tanlac Man at the Johnson-Enderle-Pauley drug store April 18.

"My wife had been ill with stomach trouble for eighteen years. She had had three operations without gaining permanent relief. Her condition grew worse and worse. She had fierce pains that at times caused her to scream. Her bowels were in bad condition. Her condition gradually grew worse, and when she began taking Tanlac I hardly expected her to live a week."

"After trying almost every other medicine Tanlac was recommended by an acquaintance and my wife decided to try this new medicine. She has now taken three bottles of Tanlac and her condition is greatly relieved. The pains in her stomach are not nearly so frequent or severe, she is gaining strength rapidly and now has a healthy glow in her cheeks. She certainly looks like a different woman, too. Knowing what Tanlac has done for my wife I cheerfully recommend it."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, has proved just as efficacious in thousands of cases as serious as that of Mrs. Houser's. Tanlac is a tonic, appetizer, invigorant and combatant. It has been found especially beneficial for the treatment of widely prevalent catarrhal conditions of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Its wealthful action reaches every part of the body, thoroughly cleansing the system, purifying the blood, creating a healthy normal appetite and overcoming weakness following coughs, colds, la Grippe, pneumonia and other common winter maladies.

Tanlac is now being introduced and explained by an expert to the St. Louis public at the Seventh and St. Charles streets store of the Johnson-Enderle-Pauley drug company. It also may be obtained at the eight other stores of this firm, the Wolff-Wilson drug company, Sixth and Washington; Keller drug company, Broadway and Franklin; Mender's five drug stores; Victor drug company and Goedde's drug stores, Wellston. Tanlac also is explained by experts at Merker's drug stores, East St. Louis; Reis' drug store, Belleville; Lully drug company, Wynn drug company and Barth's pharmacy, Alton.—ADVERTISEMENT.

Gray Hair

can easily and safely be restored to its youthful color with the first bottle of "Canute Water"—guaranteed absolutely harmless.

Apply "Canute Water for Gray Hair" as easily as directed, and day by day your gray hair will take on more and more color. The action is not complete after the first application. Use it for a few days and before you finish the first bottle the youthful color of your hair will be restored. It will then remain that way and simply require a retouching once every week or two as the hairs grow.

"Canute Water for Gray Hair" is absolutely safe to use.

Moreover, the color it gives will not wash or rub off. You may use a hot curling iron, as not even that will affect the color.

"Canute Water for Gray Hair" is just as good for men as for women. Splendid results can also be obtained on beard and moustache.

NOTE—After having been tried and proven successful by hundreds of their customers, leading chemists have recommended the use of "Canute Water for Gray Hair" to those who wish the color of their hair restored.

Why hesitate? "Canute Water for Gray Hair" is GUARANTEED ABSOLUTELY HARMLESS!

Sold for $1.00 at drug counters of St. Louis, Mo., and Famous & Co.—ADVERTISEMENT.

COLONIES WANT VOICE IN BRITAIN'S FOREIGN RELATIONS

War Conference Also Declares for Imperial Preference in Trade.

RECOGNITION FOR INDIA

Readjustment of Relations on Full Recognition as Autonomous Nations.

LONDON, May 4.—The Imperial War Conference, which has been in session for several weeks and has been attended by eminent representatives from all parts of the empire except Australia, is nearing the end of its labors after considering questions covering a wide field and adopting resolutions on matters of far-reaching importance.

Secretary of State for Colonies Walter Rume Long says that some important character at present and it probably will not be possible to publish resolutions or debates on these subjects until the end of the war. However, he quotes a number of important resolutions, among which is one approving imperial preference in the matter of trade.

Another resolution expresses the opinion that readjustment of the constitutional relations of the component parts of the empire is too important a subject to be dealt with during the war and should be taken up in an imperial conference as soon as possible after the cessation of hostilities.

Autonomous Nations.

The conference places itself on record as holding that any readjustment should be based on full recognition of the dominions as autonomous nations of an imperial commonwealth and of India as an important part of the same, and that the right of the dominions and of India to an adequate voice in Great Britain's foreign policy and foreign relations should be recognized.

It is worthy of note, says the Secretary, that in every case the decision of the conference was unanimous, and on no occasion was it found necessary to take a division or withdraw a motion because an agreement could not be reached.

Resolutions Adopted.

Among the resolutions adopted are the following:

First. That the Admiralty be requested to work out immediately after the conclusion of the war what it considers the most effective scheme of naval defense for the empire for the consideration of the several Governments summoned to this conference with such recommendations as the Admiralty considers necessary in that respect for the empire's future security.

Second. That the Imperial War Conference desires to place on record its view that the resolution of the Imperial conference of April 20, 1917, should be modified to permit India to be fully represented in all future imperial conferences.

Third. The Imperial Conference is of the opinion that a readjustment of the constitutional relations of the component parts of the empire is too important and intricate a subject to be dealt with during the war and that it should form the subject of a special imperial conference after the cessation of hostilities.

However, to place on record its views that any such readjustment, while thoroughly preserving the existing powers of self-government and complete control of domestic affairs, should be based upon full recognition of the dominions as autonomous nations of an imperial commonwealth, and of India as an important part thereof, should recognize the right of the dominions and India to voice in the foreign policy and foreign relations and should provide effective arrangements for continuous consultation on all important matters of common imperial interest and for such concerted action founded on that consultation as the several Governments shall determine.

Mineral Resource Bureau.

Fourth. That it is desirable to establish in London an imperial mineral resources bureau, upon which should be representatives of Great Britain, the dominions, India and other parts of the empire, the bureau to be charged with the duties of the collection of information regarding the mineral resources and metal requirements of the empire and of advising what action, if any, may appear desirable to enable such resources to be developed and made available to meet the metal requirements of the empire.

Fifth. That the conference, in view of the experience of the present war, calls attention to the importance of developing in adequate capacity the production of naval and military material, munitions and supplies in all important parts of the empire, including the countries bordering on the Pacific and Indian oceans, where no such facilities at present exist, and affirms the importance of close co-operation between India, the dominions and the United Kingdom with this object in view.

Food and Natural Resources.

Sixth. Having regard to the experience obtained in the present war, the conference records its opinion that the safety of the empire and the necessary development of its component parts require prompt and attentive consideration, as well as concerted action, with regard to the following matters: The production of an adequate food supply and arrangements for its transportation; control of natural resources available within the empire, especially those essential for necessary national purposes, whether in peace or war; the economical utilization of such natural resources through processes of manufacture carried on within the empire.

Seventh. The time has arrived when all possible encouragement should be given to the development of the imperial resources and especially to making the empire independent of other countries in respect to food supplies, raw materials and essential industries.

With these objects in view, the conference expresses itself in favor of the principle that each part of the empire, having due regard to the interests of our allies, shall give especially favorable treatment and facilities to producers and manufacturers of other parts of the empire; arrangements by which intending emigrants from the United Kingdom may be induced to settle in countries and under the British flag.

Eighth. That the Imperial War Conference, having examined the memorandum on the position of Indians in the self-governing dominions presented by the Indian representatives to the conference, accepts the principle of reciprocity of treatment between India and the dominions and recommends the memorandum to the favorable consideration of the Governments concerned.

Tunnel Guard Fires Two Shots.

Thomas J. Leamy, a First Regiment guardman, on duty at the Eighth street entrance to the Terminal tunnel, fired twice last night at two men who he reported were trying to enter the tunnel. The men could not be found when a search was made later.

DAN SHAY, FORMER CARDINAL SHORTSTOP, KILLS A WAITER

Shoots Negro in Indianapolis Hotel After Argument Over Amount of Sugar Served.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 4.—Dan Shay of Kansas City, manager of the Milwaukee (American Association) baseball team, shot and fatally wounded Clarence Buehl, a negro waiter, in the Hotel English here last night, in an argument over a sugar bowl. The waiter died at a hospital. Shay was arrested and the police are hunting for a woman who is said to have been with Shay at the time of the shooting and the only witness. A charge of murder was placed against Shay.

The trouble, it was said, started when Shay complained of the amount of sugar served and the waiter's manner in taking more to the table angered the baseball man.

Shay has had a long career in baseball both as a player and manager. He is 40 years old. He was shortstop for the St. Louis National League team in 1904 and two years ago became manager of the Kansas City team.

NINE KIRKWOOD BOYS TRAVEL AS HOBBOES TO ATHLETIC MEET

JEFFERSON CITY, May 4.—Nine athletes from Kirkwood High School, traveling as hoboes, arrived in McBain about 1:30 this morning on their way to the high school athletic carnival at Columbia tomorrow.

They came on different railroads. Some had "blind baggage" berths, some "rode the rods," and part lay face downward on top of coaches of the "Katy Flyer" all the way from St. Louis.

At McBain the boys bought tickets to Columbia. One of them who attempted to leave the flyer before it stopped rolled 40 feet through the mud. His hair and clothes were plastered with Boone County real estate. All were drenched from the rain and blackened by smoke and flying cinders.

GOVERNOR FINDS EFFICIENCY PLEDGE IS HARD TO KEEP

Gardner Putting Both Opponents and Supporters in Good State Positions.

POLITICIANS AROUSED

Several Allege Governor Has Failed to Keep Promise to Reward Them.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 4.—Gov. Gardner, whose time for the past few weeks has been occupied almost entirely in making appointments to office and dodging job seekers, is learning that his widely heralded pledge of efficiency in public office is difficult of accomplishment.

The politicians who have sought to convince the Governor that his election was due solely to the fact that he had their support are making demands and the Governor is finding it difficult to refuse them, although the professional politicians today are as little concerned with efficiency of the men they are seeking to put in jobs as they have ever been.

Slowly the various State departments are beginning to change in the personnel of employees and as a result the Governor is being accused by politicians, most of whom have failed to get jobs which they say were promised to them by none other than the Governor himself, of deserting his friends and of failing to reward them for their services.

One outstanding exception to this rule, which the politicians insist the Governor is following, is in the announcement that R. Perry Spencer, a St. Louis lawyer, has been appointed actuary in the State Insurance Department, a technical position which insurance men say calls for not only an insurance man of many years' experience, but a man who has been a student of the technical details of the insurance business.

The Governor's critics, of whom there are beginning to be a great number among the politicians about the State House and the Jefferson City hotel corridors, insist that Spencer's appointment does not coincide with the Governor's pledge that all State positions would be filled by men of experience in the particular work of the job, and that no man would be chosen because of political influence.

Spencer was one of the most active of the Governor's supporters and, according to politicians close to the Governor during the campaign, performed a valuable service for the Governor. It generally has been understood that he was to be taken care of with one of the best jobs at the Governor's command.

Several months ago it became known that the Governor had decided to appoint Spencer to the position of counsel for the Public Service Commission at a salary of $4000 a year. The plan was for Zach Patterson, at present counsel for the commission, to become assistant counsel under Spencer.

Just as all arrangements were made for this change, Judge Graves, Presiding Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court, who has been Patterson's political backer for many years, entered the game to hold the job for Patterson. Patterson's term does not expire for 18 months and he was in a position to hold the job unless removed under charges. Although it has been shown that Patterson, who was appointed in the Major administration, is not eligible to the position because he has not yet attained the age required by law, the Governor in did not care to raise the question in view of Judge Graves' interest in Patterson, and to take care of Spencer it became necessary to find another job.

The salary of the actuary in the insurance department is $4000 a year and the decision was reached to give that job to Spencer until Patterson's term expires and then to give him the place with the Public Service Commission.

Spencer has had no experience as an insurance actuary, but there are several clerks in the department who have had more or less experience.

Hobbs a Bank Examiner.
Another appointment which is to be made within the next few days which has caused much comment by politicians in connection with the Governor's efficiency pledge, is that of George Hobbs, Democratic City Committeeman from the Twenty-second Ward in St. Louis, to the position of bank examiner. Hobbs' banking experience consists of a few months in the employ of a St. Louis trust company. During the greater part of his life he has held a State job. A number of years ago he was a clerk in the penitentiary and more recently he has been a Deputy State Factory Inspector.

Hobbs had the backing of United States Senator Reed and Postmaster Selph of St. Louis, and had little difficulty in landing the place. Bank Commissioner Enright said that he had decided to appoint Hobbs and thought he would be a good man. Commissioner Enright, when questioned about the political influence back of the appointment, insisted that there was no influence which could control him.

"I shall run this department," he said, "and no man can get in here unless he is satisfactory to me, and if he does not do good work, he can't stay here after he gets in."

The politicians are contending that Senator Reed has more influence in getting jobs from the State administration than any other person. It is virtually agreed that John A. Knott of Hannibal, State Coal Oil Inspector, will be reappointed through the influence of Reed. Hamp Rothwell, a St. Louis lawyer, who was one of the active workers in Gardner's behalf, had expected to get this place, but has been offered a place as deputy coal oil inspector at a salary of $2000 a year. It is understood here that he has agreed to accept it, though he has not hesitated to express his dissatisfaction.

One of the surprises to politicians is the failure of William E. Leach of St. Louis to get an appointment worth while. Leach is a traveling salesman and succeeded in lining up many traveling salesmen for Gardner. They asked that he be given a good appointment. Leach wanted to be warden of the penitentiary, but told his friends that he cared less for a place with a large salary than he did to be recognized by the Governor with a position of honor.

The Governor offered him a place as deputy hotel inspector at a salary of $100 per month. Leach refused it and the Governor then offered it to his son. The son also refused the offer, and Leach is now among those who have no good words for the Governor.

Another surprise has been the failure of the Governor to offer Omar D. Gray of Sturgeon a position of importance. Gray was the Gardner campaign manager and it generally was predicted that he could have any position he desired. He wanted to be a member of the Public Service Commission, but failed to get it. He then wanted to be a member of the State Prison Board, but instead the Governor named Kelly Pool, who resides in the same county as Gray. He would have been satisfied with a place on the State Tax Commission, but the Governor has said that he intended to give the two Democratic places on the commission to Cornelius Roach and James Y. Player.

All that Gray has received so far is an appointment as a member of the Board of Managers of the Lincoln Institute at Jefferson City, a State school for negroes.

There have been many applicants for minor jobs in State institutions and departments, and many of them have left Jefferson City dissatisfied. They have said at hotels that they came with the endorsement of their Senators and that the Governor has sent them to State departments with notes instructing the head of the department to put them to work. This was impossible in many cases because there were no jobs vacant. These job hunters have expressed some wonder as to whether the Governor knew there were no vacancies when he sent them to the departments.

The Governor's action in providing good jobs for his opponents for the Democratic nomination for Governor has caused much comment. William R. Painter, who probably was the most bitter in his denunciation of Gardner during the campaign, was appointed chairman of the Prison Board. Cornelius Roach, who gave Gardner a close race in many counties, is to be chairman of the Tax Commission if the Governor carries out his announcements on that score. The Rev. Arthur N. Lindsay was made chairman of the Board of Managers of the State Hospital at Nevada.

PUBLIC IS WARNED AGAINST UNAUTHORIZED RELIEF WORKERS

Chamber of Commerce Charities Committee Suggests Inquiry Before Contributing.

The Chamber of Commerce, through its Charities Committee, has issued a warning to the public to investigate solicitors for war relief work before contributing.

According to the secretary of the committee, last week solicitors alleging to represent the United Spanish War Veterans attempted to obtain funds from

St. Louis business men, although the secretary of the veterans stated no one had been authorized to solicit funds. The committee also points out that last week collections were made on public streets for a war relief agency which claimed in their printed circular that

STUPENDOUS CASH PURCHASE

The rapid manner in which crowds of well dressed men and young men are realizing the money-saving possibilities of this great Cash Purchase Sale is but another demonstration that truly extraordinary savings are always in demand. Several of America's noted manufacturers of fine quality clothing had heavy Spring stocks left on their hands and sold them to us at immense cash discounts. These goods were made for retailers who paid much higher prices for them at wholesale than we are now offering them at retail. But owing to the woolen mills' delay in producing the piece goods and the nation-wide freight congestion, the garments could not be delivered in time for the early Easter trade and the retailers refused to accept them. That is why we were able to make this daring series of cash purchases which bring timely savings of thousands of dollars to the homes of St. Louisans.

We can't begin to tell you of the many money saving opportunities that await you in this big sale. The stocks are so enormous the styles and materials so varied that a few minutes' personal investigation will give you more information than a page of description. All we can say is, "Come and see for yourself!" When you examine the handsome fabrics, the beautiful patterns, the snappy styles and the extraordinary values you'll want to buy—not one garment—but many. For it is real economy to supply your clothing needs now for months to come. Make it a point to be here tomorrow—we'll be open until 9 p. m.

Will of Principal in "J. C. R." Mystery Case Made Public.
DICKINSON, N. D., May 4.—The $100,000 estate of James H. Caldwell, who with his wife, was killed by their hired man at their ranch near Taylor last Monday, is left to their missing son, according to his will made public today. Caldwell successfully defended a suit instituted by "J. C. R." who claimed to be his son.

Mike Chumich, the hired man, has confessed the killing of Caldwell and his wife, claiming self-defense. He is in a hospital recovering from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Rear Admiral Willits, Retired, Dies.
WOODBURY, N. J., May 4.—Rear Admiral George Sidney Willits, U. S. N., retired, died last night. Born in Philadelphia, 64 years ago, he graduated from the Naval Academy in 1875. He was awarded a service medal for his part in the China expedition during the Boxer rebellion.

AS OUT OF DATE AS HORSE CARS NOW

Says corn rings, plasters, razor and eating salves are taboo now.

Good things should be passed along. It is now said that a few drops of a drug called freezeone applied directly upon a tender, itching corn relieves the soreness and soon the entire corn, root and all, can be lifted out without pain.

For little cost a quarter of an ounce of freezeone can be obtained from any drug store, which is claimed to be sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. This is a drug recently announced from Cincinnati. It is gummy but dries the moment it is applied and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the healthy tissue or skin.

Cut this out and lay it on your wife's dresser.—ADV.

ST. LOUISAN NAMED ON 'RAIL MISSION TO RUSSIA'

—Morrill Portrait.

HENRY MILLER ON RAIL MISSION TO RUSSIA

Former Wabash Official Here, One of Four Experts to Aid in Railroad Reorganization.

Henry Miller of 4964 Forest Park boulevard, former vice president of the Wabash Railroad, has been named by the United States Government as one of a commission of four railroad experts who will be sent to Russia in the next few weeks to aid that country in reorganizing its transportation system.

Miller is now in Washington, where he has been attending conferences preliminary to the appointment of the commission. Other experts chosen to go to Russia are John F. Stevens of New York, former chief engineer of the Panama Canal; John C. Greiner of Baltimore, a consulting engineer; and William L. Derrling, chief engineer of the Northern Pacific.

Stevens, who is one of the world's most widely known engineers, had originally been selected to accompany the Root Commission to Russia, but Daniel Willard of the Council of National Defense asked that he be released, so that he could serve on the railroad commission.

It is expected that after completing its work in Russia the commission also will supervise the reorganization of the transportation system in France. Railroad equipment in Russia has deteriorated rapidly since the beginning of the war because of hard usage and shortage of grease and lubricating oil. To a certain extent the same conditions have prevailed in France.

Word reached Washington today that the Russian Government is transferring to South Russia the great munitions and supply plants in and near the capital. Coal and other materials used in these establishments were imported from England until the submarine menace curtailed the imports. Recently the limited railroad facilities have been overtaxed in bringing these necessities from the fields far to the south or from Archangel in the north.

The plants are expected to be established at Taganrog and Berdiansk in the neighborhood of the Caucasus, where there is plenty of coal, ore and food. The movement there of thousands of workers also will remove from the Russian capital an element which has endangered the stability of the Government.

GERMAN SOCIALIST DELEGATES

Imposing Party Sent to Conference at Stockholm.

COPENHAGEN, May 4.—The German Socialists have sent an imposing delegation to the international conference at Stockholm. Philip Scheidemann and Ebert Mueller represent the party executive and Deputies David, Noske and Gradnauer, the Reichstag delegation. The amalgamated labor unions sent two majority Socialist representatives. Carl Stupphagen, president of the German Federation of Trades Unions, and Deputy Bauer.

The seceding Socialist Labor group is represented by the radicals, Haase, Labouret and Bernstein.

Censorship on Lines to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Direction of the censorship over telegraph lines between the United States and Mexico has been placed in the hands of Brigadier General McIntyre, head of the Insular Bureau of the War Department. Civilian telegraphers have been sent to half a dozen points along the border to censor all messages and news reports crossing the international line.

IDEAL OF PEACE DROVE THE U. S. TO WAR, SAYS HARDEN

German Editor Quotes Wilson Speech in Full in Attack on His Nation's Policies.

DEFENDS OUR COURSE

Praises England for Its Freedom of Speech in Press and Parliament.

NEW YORK, May 4.—A cable to the Times from Amsterdam gives additional quotations from an article by Maximilian Harden, the noted German editor, in defense of the course of the United States. Harden begins a long article with praise of England. He sets forth the "inestimable worth of freedom of speech in press and Parliament" in England, and even has a good word to say for the publication of the Dardanelles report: "for only by such light can a nation which governs itself live."

He proceeds to show how a little while ago the United States stood for peace and was a peace oasis in a world stiff with armor. A professor, a Democrat and a pacifist was President. His first Secretary of State—Bryan—and his closest friend, were pillars of peace. Nineteenth of the United States were against war. A long list of democratic associations of all sorts and prominent men of all parties were for peace. When Roosevelt came forward as a war champion he suffered a severe defeat, rent his party and involved Hughes in the same fate. Yet, despite all that, on the first day of the life of the new Congress, Mr. Wilson announced his decision to throw the military and economic strength of the United States into the war against the German Empire.

Quotes Wilson's Speech. "How was such a change possible?" Harden asks, and he supplies the answer by quoting in full Wilson's historic speech to emphasize the reply. He quotes from the declaration by the great entente statesmen in Europe—Poincaré, Ribot, Deschanel and Lloyd George, referring to the latter as "a genial, ultra-strenuous man of action."

"Perhaps," says Harden, "Wilson cannot reach the heights of those four orators of the first rank, but nevertheless his speech will soon stand in the school books with those of Demosthenes, Cicero, Pitt, Mirabeau, Robespierre, Bismarck and Gambetta, and will outshine all previous and contemporary declarations, because it came from the lips of the head of a state who spoke as none had spoken before in the world's history: who was made bold by a creed of idealism, which had not become flaccid and who found courage for new things."

"On Jan. 23 the world heard Mr. Wilson's peace offer and in it the first voice which indicated in clear, profound, and considered words, not veiled with halting wishes, the way to lasting peace. On April 2 we heard from the same mouth a declaration of war like none since the Crusades."

Harden proceeds to pour scorn on those of his countrymen who now have nothing but scorn for America, bitterly attacks the German policy and argues at length that it was really her ideal of peace which drove America to act. He then goes on to refer to the entente reply to the January peace offer, saying: "In this shrill and defiant answer I do not find a single trace of that decision and scorn so often attributed to it."

Then heavy blows are directed against Zimmermann and the offer to Mexico and Harden goes on to say: "Bismarck used to declare that the worst diplomatic error of his experience was that committed by the Duke of Framont when he did not regard Leopold's repudiation of the Spanish throne as a French triumph and so avoid war and the downfall of the empire. This error of July, 1880, was exceeded by that of East Prussia in July, 1914, by the whole extent of the difference between that war, which at the end of eight weeks practically ended in victory, and that struggle which on the thousandth day is further from a military decision than it was on the thirtieth."

"If Carranza wished to conquer Arizona, New Mexico and Texas, he did not need the permission of Germany. He would first have had to deal with Gen. Villa, who still holds the American Mexican buffer territory—old Wilhelmstrasse know that—then throw himself into the adventure of a war with the earth's richest people—against 100,000,000 in whose service are the best cannon and the most modern technical science and industry, and who would rather bleed to death than allow the Mexicans to take an inch as booty."

Germany's policy toward Japan, too, is severely criticized. Harden points out how such meddling insulted America, especially as such "extraordinary tactics" were not condemned by the German people.

He asks why it is never emphasized that America's purse has for years fed Belgium and given our Red Cross nearly 100,000,000 marks."

Takes Poison by Mistake. Mrs. Maud Willmington, 40 years old, 604 Bruno avenue, swallowed a bichloride of mercury tablet last night and was sent to the city hospital. She said she had mistaken it for a headache tablet.

Order Bars Naval Men From Saloons. CHICAGO, May 4.—Officers or enlisted men of the regular naval militia or volunteers will be court-martialed for disobedience should they enter any saloon or public place where liquors are sold while in uniform, according to an order issued yesterday.

Veteran Comedian Dies. CHICAGO, May 4.—Willard E. Sims, well known comedian, died here yesterday of pneumonia. Sims had been on the stage for 20 years.

Great Money Saving Sale

of Men's and Young Men's Suits from our higher priced lines

You cannot help but be interested in this great money-saving sale which begins tomorrow morning.

at $13.25

Open Saturday night until 10 o'clock

The Store for Manhattan and Arrow Shirts Stetson Hats

It's in line with the spirit of the times.
It opens the door to real economy.
It offers you just the Suits you have pictured in your mind—at a much lower price than you ever expected to pay.

ONE glance will tell you that they are not $13.25 Suits. They were never intended to sell at a price like this. They are selections from our own higher-priced lines—specially reduced to crowd the store—bring our old patrons—win new trade—and put an extra punch in this month's selling.

HERE are fine cassimeres, Scotches, chevviots, worsteds, homespuns and flannels in the newest colorings—smart, dashing styles in belt back, half belt, belt all around, plaited and plain back effects—two and three button models—designed with curved patch pockets, slash pockets and all the new style touches that the Spring season has brought forth—sizes to fit all men and young men—becoming models for every age and figure—everything that is new, stylish and desirable will be found in this remarkable offering.

IF we told you the regular price of these suits, you would be amazed at the extent of the reductions. But it is contrary to our policy to quote comparative prices, so we leave the real values as a pleasant surprise when you see them. This much we will say, however—we have stopped at nothing to make this the most appealing and attractive suit offering of the season—and we urge you to be here tomorrow that you may see, with your own eyes, what wonderful and positively unequalled values this sale presents.

Of course—Other lines for Men and Young Men—$10 to $35

The Sale of Men's Spring Suits

Offering Truly Remarkable Values, as You Can Readily Verify, at $18.75

This sale will be the means of bringing to you a fuller realization of the force of the mighty purchasing power of our combined stores.

With the price of good woollens on the upward trend, and the cost of everything that goes into the making of good clothes on the increase, it is an achievement such as only an institution like this can accomplish to present clothes of such high character at so nominal a price at this time.

If you need, or are going to need, new clothes this Spring or Summer, attend this sale Saturday. This sale offers you a surprisingly large variety of up-to-the-minute garments for your selection. Fancy fabrics galore; plain green, brown and blue flannels, silk mixed worsteds, and the dressy blue serges.

There are conservative models for conservative business men, and "belts all around" for the younger generation. And the sizes include the usual "regulars" and a generous assortment of special suits for stout, slim, short and tall men. In plainer words, there is just about everything a man could ask for in a substantial Spring and Summer Suit; and the price of $18.75 is much less than many men had planned to pay. The saving is yours.

MOBILIZING U-BOAT CHASERS

Forty to Be Ready at Chicago in Two Weeks.

CHICAGO, May 4.—The first of Chicago's fleet of motor boats accepted by the Government recently and since converted into a submarine chaser will leave for the front in a few days for active duty, it was announced today. Within two weeks, it is said, 40 speedy submarine chasers which have been accepted by the Government in this section will have received their alterations for service and will be mobilized at Chicago. Rear Admiral Albert Ross, retired, former commandant at the Great Lakes Training Station, has been ordered to active duty and will take charge of the submarine station soon to be opened at Culver, Ind., where space for training 500 men is available. Work on the Great Lakes training station, which will have a capacity of 500 men, will be started tomorrow. On the same day 500 men will be placed on the training ship Con. modore.

3 CITY OFFICIALS TAKEN FOR VISIT TO BABY CLINICS

Shown by Officials of Welfare Exhibit How Care of Children Is Being Aided.

SEVERAL CALLS MADE

Show at 710 Olive Street and That at Sheldon Memorial to Close Tomorrow.

Clubwomen in charge of the baby welfare exhibit at 710 Olive street yesterday afternoon took Acting Mayor Aloe, Director of Public Welfare Tolkaas and Dr. Max Starkloff, Health Commissioner, to the various baby clinics in the city and showed them the work which is being done to conserve the life of the youngsters.

The automobiles left Twelfth and Market streets at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. W. R. Chivvis, president of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. A. E. Reton, president of the eighth district of the federation, and Mrs. Edmund F. Brown, president of the Visiting Nurses' Association, directing the tour.

Markham Memorial Visited.
The first stop was made at Markham Memorial, Menard and Julia streets, where more than 25 mothers had gathered with their babies to show how healthful the little ones were after several months' supervision of their care by the officials of the clinics.

Aloe was much impressed by the explanations of the officials in charge and was asked for an address.

"You will find the present Board of Aldermen a spending board," he said, "when it comes to saving the life of its citizens. The city of St. Louis will always be glad, I am sure, to do what is in its power to aid the mothers in the care and safeguarding of the health of their children."

Tolkaas related the history of the baby clinics. He said that a city today considered the baby a potential citizen of tomorrow and one whose well-being must be carefully conserved.

Dr. Starkloff said St. Louis was the healthiest city in America in which to raise babies.

"Only 83 first-year babies out of every 1000 die in St. Louis," he continued, "while in New York City, the next lowest city in baby mortality, 96 of every 1000 die. I am surprised that our business organizations, when attempting to get persons to bring their families to St. Louis, do not use this slogan—'St. Louis is the best city in the world to raise your babies in.'"

Milk Supply Kept Pure.
Starkloff then told of the work of the Health Commission in assisting in the baby welfare, and said that one of the best things which St. Louis was doing today for its younger citizens was seeing that the milk supply was pure and healthful.

A child life exhibit opened yesterday in Sheldon Memorial, 2646 Washington avenue, and will continue the rest of the week. The exhibit at 710 Olive street will also remain open until Saturday night. The general public is invited to both exhibits, and mothers wishing advice regarding their babies are urged to visit the Olive street station.

ZAIMIS TO PICK GREEK CABINET

Former Premier Said to Have Learned Through the Estate.

LONDON, May 4.—Alexander Zaimis has accepted the task of forming a new Greek Cabinet, says a Reuter dispatch from Athens.

Alexander Zaimis was formerly Premier and Foreign Minister of Greece, but retired from office in September, 1916. King Constantine of Greece recently made an offer to the entente allies to form a Cabinet agreeable to them if guarantees were given to him that the French army would not invade Greece and that he would not be dethroned. Zaimis, who is said to be loyal to the King, but to have leanings toward the entente, recently was reported to have promised the British Minister in Athens to form a Ministry acceptable to the British and French Governments on condition that the blockade of Greece should be lifted.

How Electric Service Wins Its Way

Selling Union Electric Service gives us the satisfaction any man feels in marketing at a fair price something of real usefulness, with the extra thrill a live man always gets from the knowledge that he is helping to usher in a new and higher standard of living.

Our salesmen have a good many humanly interesting experiences. Here is a typical one, reported a few days ago, that gives you an idea of how Union Electric Service is steadily winning its way to wider and more varied usefulness:

April 25, 1917

Mr. C. E. Michel, Manager Office Sales Department:

Called on Mr. B. E. B. General Manager of Company, and obtained his permission to call on Mrs. B. and interest her in an electric range. Got an appointment with Mrs. B. and called on her yesterday afternoon. Explained every phase of the electric range to her. Explained to her the meaning of Union Electric Service. Mrs. B. was not aware of our Free Repair Service. Stated she went around the corner for a neighborhood electrician several times when her lights went out, and paid each time on an average of 60 cents for the call. She stated that her lamps in some of her rooms would not light now.

I explained to Mrs. B. that she could get a man from our Free Repair department at any time in the 24 hours and made the statement that he would call within 20 minutes after the call was put in. She jokingly suggested that I call one of our Free Repair men to fix the lights that were out and requested me to time him. I asked her to accompany me to the phone, called Main 3220 and asked for the Free Repair department. Reported to the department as follows:

"B. E. B. 62 Blvd. Lights out."

Both Mrs. B. and I took the time of this call. The Free Repair man arrived 14 minutes later. He found the fuse blown out and put in a new one. He inspected all the lamps in the house, the electric iron, vacuum cleaner and washing machine. After completing his inspection, he phoned into the office to make his report and found a noisy transmitter on the telephone. He suggested to Mrs. B. that she call up the telephone company and have their man fix the transmitter.

Our Free Repair department is certainly to be commended on the excellent service it is giving. This call in particular assisted me very much in my work and certainly made a good impression on the customer.

Mrs. B. insisted that I call at their house that evening and explain the electric range to Mr. B. I called back last evening on Mr. B. and explained the electric range very thoroughly. Secured an order for a K-20 General Electric range with steam cooker, list price $136.50.

ANNOUNCEMENT

NOTWITHSTANDING the constant increase in the cost of the materials used in the construction of our cars and bodies, ever since the breaking out of the European war we have steadfastly refrained from increasing our selling prices; in fact, in March, 1915, we reduced the list price of our chassis from $1850 to $1650.

The European war has lasted beyond all expectations, and with each succeeding month prices have gone higher. The demand for raw materials has grown beyond normal bounds, stimulated first by the needs of the Allied Powers and now vastly augmented by the military demands of our own country.

There is a marked shortage of materials at rapidly increasing prices.

If this condition continues, we will find it absolutely necessary to increase, without further notice, the prices of our chassis, bodies and parts.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Government Food Control.

There is a tremor of uneasiness among food speculators in consequence of the proposed Government regulation of foodstuffs and necessities during the war. This is doubtlessly the beginning of the end of a practice that has been termed "good business," consisting chiefly in forcing up prices.

Some men scoff at the idea of real control of prices of commodities. It is more difficult to regulate the prices of foodstuffs than to control the cost of transporting them. Railroad officials and legislators scoffed at the latter idea, at the time freight charges were not based on cost of transportation, but on how much the traffic would bear—all that could be squeezed out of it. Today sees but the beginning of the regulation of freight rates.

The business man says today of coal: "Cars are scarce and the demand is heavy, we cannot get enough coal to fill the orders, therefore the price of coal must increase." Let us see how this flimsy argument or pretense would apply to unregulated freight rates. The railroads are short of coal cars, and cannot furnish what the mines ask, therefore, it will cost more to haul coal. The price of transportation would advance, due to the increased demand for cars. The Government says, however, no matter if you have orders for a thousand cars and have only ten cars to furnish the freight rates is so much per 100 pounds between this and that district; not one cent more or less.

There is only one class of speculators whom we allow to speculate—and we speculate along with them. They are the farmers. We must pay them the cost of production plus a reasonable profit on their investment and labor. They speculate with the elements over which no human has control and if they are short we must pay for the increased cost, well and good, on account of such a shortage in production. To none outside of these speculators do we owe more than a reasonable profit over cost and cost of handling commodities. The prospect of a future crop has no bearing on the price of a crop harvested and in hand.

Recruit Willing Convicts.

Why wouldn't the convict who is willing to enlist in the army or navy make a good soldier? The mere fact that he has served time ought not to deny him the privilege to live and come back, either in the army or the navy. I say give the convict a chance to make good.

M. J. K.

Would Eliminate Band Concerts.

I would suggest that a little economy be practiced by our city fathers and the Park Department. We are offering everything such as golf links, tennis courts, baseball grounds, swimming pools, etc., which are all for the good of the public and there is no objection to this. But since the taxpayer carries all the load he should have something to say in the matter. I believe we should let it go at that. The band concerts, I think, could be dispensed with, which would mean a saving from $15,000 to $20,000, which could be used on the drives in our parks, which everybody knows are in the worst condition they ever were, and no one seems to consider the man who pays a license to have his vehicle shaken to pieces, not saying anything about himself being tossed about until worn out and a fit subject for the hospital.

TAXPAYER.

Die Amerika Blustering.

The organ of the pro-German element in St. Louis is trying to intimidate loyal Americans by threatening what the "25,000,000" Germans in this country will do if they are "persecuted." Die Amerika has a peculiar notion as to what persecution is. That paper attacks the Government of the United States and any American official who says or does anything against the German Government, and then when loyal Americans resent Die Amerika's utterances it talks about being persecuted. It is an arrogant blustering. In truth there are not 25,000,000 Germans in this country, and the percentage of disloyalists among the ones that are here is not as high as Die Amerika thinks. It is a case of the wish being father to the thought with the local organ of Kultur. Law-abiding Germans are not going to be persecuted, but traitors are, if richly deserved punishment can be called persecution.

AMERICAN.

Baseball Martyrs.

From the Kansas City Star.
Every small town has a pitcher with more speed and sharper curves than Walter Johnson, but who is handicapped by not having a catcher "who could hold him."

UNITY AND CO-OPERATION.

Two unusually good addresses were made at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon to the officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

President Rhett and Director Filene stated with singular clarity and force the high purpose in defense of democracy and humanity and in promotion of enduring peace which brought our country into the war, and the great part the United States will play in our splendid adventure.

Unselfishness of aim and efficiency of action were the central thoughts both speakers developed.

Mr. Rhett outlined the organization and objects of the National Chamber of Commerce. He described it as the creation of the new spirit actuating the business men of America—the spirit of co-operation for the general welfare, for the public as well as for the business man, which has superseded the old narrow spirit of combination for individual profit.

Mr. Filene pointed out the essential things necessary to utilize our great strength for the war and to assure success. They are:

Unity, solidarity of thought and effort under wise leadership.

Co-operative efficiency, the co-ordinating of forces to accomplish common ends, swiftly and thoroughly.

Every American should realize that he is a part in the great American war organization and do the work that comes to his hand; he must work with every other American to accomplish the essential tasks of the nation.

Designating himself as a shopkeeper—he is head of a Boston department store—Mr. Filene sensibly advised the people to put judicious restraints upon their own wants while so many necessities are required by the Government for war purposes. He advised individuals to subordinate their wants to public needs and thus free railroads and factories for Government service.

Unity, co-operation, unselfishness, these are three essential things.

THE PRINCIPLE OF CENSORSHIP.

The principle which should govern in the framing of press censorship laws for the war is absolute freedom for the publication of legitimate opinion and criticism; suppression only of facts the publication of which might defeat or interfere with military plans or give aid to the enemy.

Deviation from this principle in laws governing the press will be harmful, not helpful. Facts cannot be suppressed and freedom of speech restricted without danger to public interests.

Publicity is as necessary to public safety in war as in peace.

U-BOAT PROBLEM'S BASIC TERMS.

After being officially and at times almost contemptuously minimized by London for many weeks, Berlin claims as to the U-boat campaign are at length conceded.

Indeed, reports more alarming than any that have come from Berlin are given publicity from allied sources. If, as Secretary Lane says, information indicates that 400,000 tons of shipping were sunk last week alone, or if half that amount was sunk, the result of the great war may come to depend wholly on the ingenuity to discover a more effective means of combatting submarines.

From what direction is the tremendous problem to be approached? What are the general lines along which inventive skill must search for a solution, the basic conditions that must be fulfilled to obtain success?

An agency which, like the U-boat itself, can fight in three dimensions will obviously have a great superiority over guns on merchant craft, destroyers, cruisers, battleships, other present means of defense against submarines. A new form of submersible construction which would enable one U-boat to pursue and attack efficiently a hostile U-boat would seem a solution of the problem. But what changes will make such a form possible?

Manifestly the aeroplanes have a great advantage in being able to locate its adversary by sight. But may not devices for locating a submarine in the depths by hearing, so much more delicate than any now known as to prove a substitute for sight, overcome this great handicap?

COAL IS DIFFERENT.

It is not patriotic to fill your cellar with food, because that creates scarcity and causes high prices, but there is nothing more patriotic than filling your shed with coal. The case of coal is different from that of food. There is plenty of coal. Filling the sheds in the summer against the winter's need is not going to create scarcity and cause high prices. Failure to fill sheds, however, while the filling's good, will have precisely those effects.

It is this way: While the supply of coal is bounteous, the production and distribution of coal have limitations. For one thing the coal miner is uncertain. He may strike. For another thing there is a scarcity of coal cars. For months most of the mines supplying St. Louis territory with coal have not been able to work much more than half time because of lack of cars. Next winter, if the war in Europe continues, the condition will be worse.

Notwithstanding the uncertainty of the miners and the inadequacy of the car supply, the mines can turn out and the railroads can distribute enough coal for everybody if they can spread the production and the distribution through the year. They cannot, under conditions now existing and likely to continue, produce and distribute enough in six months or less time for a year's requirements.

If the war continues through next winter the world will need all the coal that the mines of America can produce. Great Britain is already short 15,000,000 tons. France's plight is worse. This country is now mining nearly 50 per cent of the world's output but that is not enough. Next winter our domestic and industrial requirements will be greater. The railroads will need more than ever before. The navy, which fights on its furnace, needs twice as much coal in time of war as in time of peace.

Maximilian Harden, whose paper was suppressed almost weekly in the early days of the war, is now permitted to express the most radical sentiments without hindrance. Has Germany reached the point where the voice of democracy is too loud to be silenced?

MUST HAVE THE DIET'S HELP.

After steadfastly refusing since the beginning of the war to convoke the National Parliament, the rulers of Austria have at last decided they can no longer delay it. The Emperor's decision to summon that body is plainly causing many misgivings in Germany. It seems to be another indication that the power of the German party in Austria is rapidly weakening.

The Parliament has not been convoked hitherto because the aristocracy has been afraid to convoke it. At all times one of the most discordant political bodies in the world, the assembly at this time should be harder to handle than ever.

To their normal disputes the irreconcilable factions will add the greater dissensions that have come with war weariness. The Slavs and Czechs undoubtedly will be emboldened to ask embarrassing questions because of the success of democracy and the cause of local self-government in Russia. The Hungarians will have a bill of complaint to file about the unsatisfactory conduct of hostilities. Above all, the old, perennial discontent of all other factions against the civil and military dominance of the German influence is bound to flame into new and brighter resentment. The session will afford the first real test of the powers of leadership of the new monarch. If Kaiser Karl can patch up some measure of harmony and obtain at least a fair outward show of mutual trust and co-operation, it will be no longer possible to doubt that even a bigger man than Franz Joseph has ascended the throne.

ORGANIZING FOR A LONG WAR.

President Daniel Willard of the B. & O., member of Mr. Wilson's National Defense Council, is helping to destroy some famous illusions in warning the country to prepare for a long war.

If peace comes within the next few months, it will be due to unexpected factors and probably will be influenced more by Germany's interior than its exterior situation. All the indications that now justify optimism point to progress at a slow rate and a bitter, stubborn contest. "Just imagine the effect if Russia were to effect a settlement with Germany," says Mr. Willard. "Two and a half million men would be released to fight on the western front."

But perfidy to the allies on the part of Russia would mean more than that. It would mean relief for irksome conditions that are seriously affecting German fighting power. It would mean great stores of food from Russia's wide areas for half-rations Germany. It would mean supplies of metals and many other things whose lack now handicaps the Kaiser.

Mr. Willard's statement that the entire railroad system is now operated by a central head at Washington shows that American transportation is prepared for a long war. A large measure of relief from congestion is to be looked for. No other allied nation entered the war with so high a degree of national organization as that with which the United States will enter it.

FALSE IMPRESSIONS.

El Heraldo of Parral, a Mexican journal, said last year, mistaking our patient, watchful waiting:

Germany has answered the demands of the United States for the sinking of the Lusitania with the sinking of the Nebraska. Hooray! Hurrah for the insolent pirates of the uncultured hearts, devoid of all pity! Germany's brutal defiance of the United States passes affront. Never in the history of the world has a so-called strong nation been so insulted with another with so much premeditation and such disdain. The gauntlet thrown in the face of the transatlantic country (the United States) will not be picked up by the latter; it will stick in its face like bloody saliva; the sun of all the centuries will not dry it. And this offended country, unable to seek refuge in war, will seek refuge in rhetoric. It will not fight; it will talk.

And yet, to this day, there are a few Americans who are giving foreigners the same impression this foolish Mexican journal had.

Gen. Joffre's English vocabulary now consists of "Thank you" and "I don't speak the English." By the time he leaves St. Louis he ought to be able to say: "That was a wonderful reception."

WRECKING OF TWO RAILROADS.

The general facts in the wrecking of the Pere Marquette and C. H. & D. railroads have been known to the public for years. That the Interstate Commerce Commission now submits a report on them belatedly is due to a request of Congress expressed in a resolution. The report makes this particular chapter in frenzied finance a matter of official record and adds a few new details.

An interesting feature of what the commission has to say relates to the manner in which great railroad magnates unload unprofitable properties which they acquire in unguarded moments. The Prince interests began the wrecking of the Pere Marquette and then, after profiting largely by watering the securities, sold it at an advance to the Zimmermann interests of Cincinnati. The latter kept right on with the wrecking and then wished the system off onto Mr. Morgan. When the great trust-maker discovered he had been imposed on, did he pocket his losses and smile? Not at all. He passed the buck by unloading the road onto the Erie, which he controlled. However, when the minority Erie interests strengthened themselves for a row he took the road back and unloaded it onto the B. & O., which he also controlled.

Of the successive transactions that waterlogged the two roads, the report says: "Only a court of criminal jurisdiction could deal adequately with them." Why was it that a court of criminal jurisdiction did not deal with them?

TEN THOUSAND MILES AWAY.

(John P. Poorman, Maplewood, Mo., sends us the following, which he says "was a popular song written about the old prison ship Success," now exhibiting here.)

Sing I for a brave and gallant barque,
A stiff and rattling breeze,
A bully crew and a captain, too,
To carry me o'er the seas.
To carry me o'er the seas, my boys,
To my true love as gay—ay—ay.
Who went on a trip in a government ship,
Ten thousand miles away.

CHORUS.

Blow, ye winds, hi oh!
A roasting I will go;
I'll stay no more on England's shore.
So let the music play;
I'll start by the morning train
To cross the raging main,
For I'm on the road to my own true love,
Ten thousand miles away.

My true love she was handsome,
My true love she was young;
Her eyes were blue as the violet's hue,
And silvery was the sound of her tongue,
And silvery was the sound of her tongue, my boys;
And while I sing this lay—ay—ay,
She's a-doin' the grand in a far-off land,
Ten thousand miles away.

Dark and dismal was the day
When last I seen my Meg;
She'd a Government band around each hand,
And another one round her leg,
And another one round her leg, my boys;
As the big ship left the bay—ay—ay,
Adieu! she said, remember me,
Ten thousand miles away.

Oh! if I were a sailor lad,
Or even a bombardier,
I'd hire a boat and go afloat,
And straight to my true love steer, my boys,
Where the dancing dolphins play—ay—ay,
And the whales and sharks lick up their larks,
Ten thousand miles away.

The sun may shine through a London fog,
Or the river run bright and clear;
The ocean's brine be turned to wine,
As the big ship left the bay—ay—ay,
And I forget my beer, my boys,
Or the landlord's quarter day—ay—ay,
But never will I part from my own sweetheart,
Ten thousand miles away.

"Are you in favor of sending troops to France?"
"Well, our army has owed France a call for a long time."

IN THE MODE.

"Have you proposed to her?"
"Yes, I am very happy. She has promised to be my Red Cross nurse."

The French commissioners are great gentlemen. Notwithstanding Miss Rankin voted against going to the relief of France in the war, each of them was profoundly charmed to meet her and prompt to kiss the lady's hand.

The Illinois railroad man who has received a 1-cent check for overtime since January under the new 8-hour law is in the enviable position of one who may cheer for a principle won without thought of self.

A good many baseball fans who see their favorite players facing conscription will wish them more luck in bringing home flags than they have been having around some of our ball yards.

Establishing the principle of indiscriminate submarining is a big job, but the Germans seem to be making some headway at it.

Billy Sunday is for the allies. That is not important, except that Billy always has the devil located.

There is no coward like the price of wheat.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

F. S.—Canned asparagus: Into asparagus boiler put salted water, and when this boils lay in the asparagus, from which bottoms of scraped stalks have been cut. Boil gently until tender, but not broken. Remove carefully from the liquor, stand the stalks on end in fruit jars, boil the water hard and fill the jars to overflowing, then screw the lids tightly. Keep in cool, dark place. Canned spinach: Pick over carefully, stripping leaves from stems. Wash thoroughly in several waters, then pack into agateware or porcelain pan set in larger one of warm water. Bring gradually to a boil, then cook rapidly half hour. Have ready glass cans hot and well sterilized; pack brimful of scalding spinach, so full that the juice runs over the top when you screw a tight. Seal immediately, and when cold wrap in paper and bury in a box of sand set in a cool dark place. * Newest and most scientific method by which vegetables are canned and canned successfully is called intermittent sterilization. It has been proved that while many germs may be killed by one boiling, some of their spores or off-shoots are not killed till they come to maturity, so that a second and even a third boiling is necessary for complete sterilization.

LAW POINTS.

IRENE—Divorced husband is bound to pay all the alimony ordered by the court.

E. ST. LOUIS—There is no denial reciprocity between Illinois and Missouri. Examination practical and theoretical are required.

W. W.—Law says intoxicating liquors shall not be delivered or delivered in local option counties. No law says a man shall not give a friend beer on Sunday.

HENPECKED HUSBAND.—In Missouri a wife can contract and be contracted with and borrow money on her husband's content, and is not required to get husband's consent; nor would he be liable therefor. If she contracts debts for necessities, in certain cases, he may be liable for such.

CAMPBELL—You might appeal the flag with the poem, "Fly Our Flag Over All Our Nation and Swat the Fly Overboard." Manufactured by "Splendid" Fly Swatters made in St. Louis, Ind. It would be a violation of the flag law. However, it is a matter for courts, not one for a newspaper.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AWT—As to Army and Navy post competition, try writing Depot Q. M. Army Bldg., New York City.

EX—Unless the draft law shall provide otherwise, 2 years' cavalry service will not exempt a man from conscription.

MILBRED—You might appeal to the Secretary of the Navy for your brother, who wishes to be transferred to the army.

W. J. B.—That chestnut again! President may be re-elected every 4 years, of course, but would not be customary after 2 elections.

PROGRESS—Apply at 14 and Olive recruiting station for application blank that will give full information as to enlisted reserve corps.

MARTHA—Free America might not be free long if she had no power to send her soldiers across the sea against imperial enemies.

FLORISANT—If a soldier or an officer is a private, his duty is to fight, to keep himself clean and healthy and to do good to his gun and his equipment.

JAMES—As to cutting glass submerged in water, after the war, Washington University: "This scheme merely keeps the pieces of glass from flying about and wounding people. They are hardly considered a slacker if he were to hold back until the country's direct needs are met. There are no instructions available on the subject, however, at this time."

JACKSON—The present term of enlistment in the navy is 4 years. There is no special term of enlistment except in the case of minors under the age of 18 years, who are enlisted for the term of their minority. The navy is reduced to a normal footing after the war and it is probable that those desiring a discharge will be given it. There are no instructions available on the subject, however, at this time.

READER—Calloused soles: Get an insole and cut a hole in it large enough to ease the calloused spot. One authority says that calluses can be found when these calloused places appear on the soles of the feet by strapping the foot with adhesive plaster, being sure that it is put on smoothly and without wrinkles. The perspiration thus occasioned softens the calloused spots so that they will disappear. Another authority, especially reliable, recommends massaging the feet with oil. The feet, if they have been bathed in warm water (Department stores and first-class shoe stores sell appliances for calloused soles.)

C. B.—Superstitions: Dime in a cake signifies that the thief who gets it will die rich; a thimble means that the woman who gets it will be a spinster always; a leaf means that she will be a farmer. Or if a man gets it, that his wife will be a good cook; a ring, that he or she will be married soon. Blow out the candle, and if the wick continues long to smolder, look for bad weather. If it goes out quickly, the weather will be fair. A collection of tallow rising up against the wick of a candle was styled a "wicked candle," an olden times, and deemed an omen of death in the family. A spark at the candle denoted that the person opposite it would shortly leave a letter.

W. J. K.—Applicants for positions in the secret service should write to the Secretary of the Treasury for an application blank. When it has been filled out the applicant should forward with it addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury and marked "Personal," such evidence as to the experience, training, qualifications and personal characteristics as he may be able to obtain, without any reference to his political or religious affiliations, which may be considered as proof of his fitness for employment in the service. This selection is confined to experience and personal fitness. The applicant should also give the names and addresses of persons to whom he refers as to his character and qualifications for employment in the service. Pay $2 to $5 a day. LEARNING—Rice contains a greater portion of nutrition than any of the other cereals. The exact scientific estimates made by the United States Department of Agriculture upon the exact amount of nutritive substance in eight common foods show:
Rice.....1000
Wheat.....1000
Corn.....1000
Oats.....1000
Barley.....1000
Rye.....1000
These figures show that rice contains a slightly larger amount of total nutritive matter than wheat or rye, exact proportion being one pound of rice equivalent to 1.04 pounds of wheat or to 1.06 pounds of rye. Maize approaches somewhat more nearly proportion of rice to matter, being 1.08. Rice is more nutritious than wheat, 1 pound of the former being equivalent to 1.12 pounds of the latter. It contains 2.70 times as much nutritive matter as potatoes, 1.77 times as much as fat beef, and 2.51 times as much lean or good ordinary beef.

Dorothy Dix says

Every Woman Wants a Man Who Will Master Her, Yet Make Her Feel That She Is a Queen.

THE third way in which a wife would like to be treated is like a cave woman, yet a suffragette.

In one of his stories, Booth Tarkington says that the desire of every man is to find a woman who will be ice to all the balance of the world, but fire to him.

Every woman's desire is to find a man who will be hard as adamant to the balance of the world, but soft as putty in her hands. More than that, she wants a man who will master her, yet make her feel that she is a queen.

If I were to pick out the one quality that makes a man a desirable husband from a woman's point of view, I should say that it is the quality that makes a man a good whip. He must know how to drive with a light rein, when to give the gray mare her head, and when to pull on the bit; when to hold her steady and when to let her bolt; when to coax and when to urge her on. But, above all, he must make her feel, as the good driver does his horse, that there is a bigger intelligence, a stronger will than hers behind her, guiding and protecting and directing her along the road of life.

It is because men so seldom possess the right sort of hand and drive the matrimonial team so clumsily, so brutally, or so carelessly, that so many wives kick over the traces, or turn balky, or run away and upset the apple cart.

In spite of feminism and women's rights, there is one right that no woman wants, and that is the right of superiority over her husband. Every woman wants to look up to her husband. She wants to feel that he is bigger and broader and wiser than she is, and that she can lean on his strength and depend on his judgment.

That is why the happiest families are those in which the wife begins every sentence with "John said," and while it is true that women do often display great affection for men who are weaklings, that love is not the real passion of a woman for her mate. It is the pitying, protecting maternal love of a mother for a defective child.

At heart, every woman is a cave woman, in streaks, at least. If every woman told the truth, she would confess that the way she would like to be wooed would be by some big, strong, primeval male who would propose to her the first time he ever saw her, and when she refused on the ground that this was so sudden, and what would everybody say, would seize her by the hair on her head, fling her into a taxicab and rush off with her to the marriage license bureau and marry her despite her protests.

Then came silence. All sorts of yarns went around, you know, but she held her head right up. I tell you, then she got a clipping from some cheap newspaper out West telling about an accident he had been in, and with the clipping was a letter from a friend of his, saying that he had died since the accident. It threw her, but she held her head right up. I tell you, then she got a clipping from some cheap newspaper out West telling about an accident he had been in, and with the clipping was a letter from a friend of his, saying that he had died since the accident.

About a year later, after Marshall had been in communication with a group of business associates in the West, one of them said he had run across the name Clarke Sherman in a little town in Nevada.

It was like searching for a needle in a haystack, Marshall knew, to seek out a man by the name of Clarke Sherman, for there were many in the world, but Marshall made up his mind to look up the man if his business brought him near the town. The opportunity came a few months later. Marshall planned to make sure that if Clarke Sherman were living, he would know what one man thought of him.

His first question after his arrival in the Nevada town was asked of the hotel clerk, but the latter shook his head. "Never heard of anybody round here by that name—hold on, perhaps some of the old fellows know."

An "old fellow," called from the front of the hotel smoked slowly. "Why—yes, there was such a chap—lived out Butte way, but I guess he's been dead an' gone for 20 years."

Marshall was in despair, and was about to give up the foolish search when the man who had been speaking pointed to a thin individual across the street.

"There goes a fellow named—Seeker from out that way—perhaps he knows something about him."

Crossing over, Marshall hailed him and made known his case. The man's eyes were keen and crafty, and Marshall did not like them, nor did he like the man's answer.

"No, sir, there's no one out there now by that name. Clarke Sherman was killed in an accident. What do you want to know for?" he demanded curiously.

Marshall's quick temper flared at the man's tone. "That's my business!" He walked away.

Afterward as he thought the matter over, the antagonism in the man's attitude made Marshall suspicious. "I believe just for the deuce of it, I'll motor out that way, after I find just where the chap lives. It's a needle in a haystack business, but I may be able to look up some business on the way."

Hardly had he put his foot on the tip of the porch when from the door a "dawg," half bull and the rest just plain monkey, launched itself at him.

The heavy wrench fell squarely on the man's head and over the brute went in head.

Marshall rapped on the door. There was no sound. He stepped in—and stopped.

Lunch Boxes for the Children

THERE are many simple things which may be put in the child's school lunch box that will give him or her variety each day in the week.

First of all, however, for the lunch box itself—the box is much more satisfactory than the more or less carelessly wrapped paper bundle. The tin box, which may be thoroughly washed and scalded and also folded in a flat package which fits in with the school books, after the luncheon has been eaten, is really the most satisfactory thing in which to pack the food, so most people agree. This chosen, the next thing to provide is a generous supply of sheets of waxed paper and paper napkins, for each article of food should be wrapped separately, and paper rather than damp napkins are preferred because they may be thrown away, thus saving the trouble of carrying them home.

A small plain cup cake, split in two, filled with jam and sprinkled over with powdered sugar, is good, while a similar cake with a thin coating of chocolate over the top and through the middle would be a festive layer cake.

Salads may be easily carried in the box luncheon, when packed in these jars, chicken, celery and apple salad—many that the child likes. Tomato jelly, with salad dressing spread over the top to be mixed in by the child as he or she eats, is another attractive addition to the menu. Cup custards are favorite dishes with some youngsters; these, if packed carefully, are usually welcomed. One mother bakes pumpkin pie filling in custard cups, and her children are delighted when they discover them in their boxes at lunch time. And cookies, particularly when they can boast fruit or nuts among their ingredients, are sure to be eaten. Old-fashioned tapioca cream or rice, orange or chocolate pudding, could be carried in those little jars with well fitting covers, and they may be made as attractive as though served in a larger dish on the home table.

If the pudding usually has a meringue it is a simple matter to brown a spoonful of meringue separately in the oven and put it on top of the pudding in the jar, and the child is usually pleased with the thought and care manifested in its preparation.

A well-arranged box luncheon might consist of sandwiches with a hearty (not sweet) filling, meat, eggs or cheese, or bread and butter with a slice or two of meat, or stuffed eggs wrapped separately, fresh fruit or stewed fruit in a glass jar and, for dessert, either cookies, cake, pudding or custard in a jar and perhaps, occasionally, a few pieces of candy.

If it is desired to add something hot, it is easy to carry cocoa or soup in a vacuum bottle of some sort which will keep its contents hot. And it is possible to get a lunch box large enough, or containing a separate compartment, for this.

Stuffed eggs are welcome additions to the lunch box. Boil the eggs hard, cut in two lengthwise, and remove the yolks. Mash these and mix with a little salad dressing, and then put back into the shells.

How Cooking Helps Business Women

"I WAS always fond of cooking," said Miss Mabel C. Little, who is now director of university dining halls at Cornell University. "When I left home in search of a career, it seemed perfectly natural to use my knowledge of cooking in some way. At first I studied the subject at a well-known cooking school, expecting to teach cooking in time. But later events and opportunities led me to continue my studies at Teachers' College, Columbia University, with the intention of becoming a teacher of institutional management. Then I was recommended to fill my present position at Cornell University."

"At this time there was only one dormitory for the women of the university—a very old hall; but there had recently been received, from a prominent woman, the gift of a fine new dormitory which was then being built. This new building was to have the latest equipment in all lines, and I was put in charge of the dining room there."

"This was in September of that year; the girls went into the new dormitory in November, the dining room opening in December. Later I also opened a cafeteria in another building, the oldest in the university and a men's dormitory. Then the university took over the restaurant in one of the buildings of an engineering college."

"This had been conducted by a man from the town, and it had been done in such an unsatisfactory manner that the conditions which I found there will not bear description. This restaurant was also put under my direction."

"Now most of the food for all the dining rooms and cafeterias is cooked in the kitchen of the new dormitory which is referred to, and delivered at the different buildings by means of motor trucks. The bakeshop in this hall supplies bread, rolls, cakes, etc., to all the other dining halls. The method which we use to keep the food hot en route is that of the fireless cooker. We have many different sorts of containers. Certain things we place deep down in cans, which are then packed in big boxes and stuffed all around with newspapers. We find this system of delivering the food to various buildings from the one kitchen most satisfactory."

"I have four assistants, one in charge of each building. These women are responsible for cleanliness in their departments as well as for the work of their subordinates; they are all graduates of schools of domestic economy. The menus I plan by the month. I strive to have a good variety always, never, for instance, serving certain

AERIAL TORPEDO IDEA WORKED UPON BY U. S.

Sinking of Steamer by German
Seaplane Recalls Interview
With Albert Bond Lambert.

The announcement that the British steamer Gona was sunk May 1 by a torpedo discharged from a German seaplane recalls the statement made by Albert Bond Lambert in an interview with the Post-Dispatch a year and a half ago, to the effect that Rear Admiral Fluke's idea of an aerial torpedo was being developed by experiments in the Navy Department.

At the time, it was stated that Germany was known to be working on a similar plan, which, judging from the sinking of the Gona, has been carried out with some success. One of the speculative possibilities of the incident is that the German seaplane settled down near the water and released its torpedo much as a destroyer or cruiser might do. This supposition gains support from the fact that a second seaplane, aiding the first, was destroyed by the Gona's guns. An aeroplane, diving near or resting on the waters would be an easier mark than one in the air, though it could afford this risk in view of the superior accuracy of a torpedo over a bomb.

According to Lambert, Admiral Fluke's idea was eventually to develop an aeroplane which would itself be a torpedo, flying in the air instead of swimming in the water. The machine would carry no crew, would be aimed and stabilized with mechanical devices, and fly from six to ten feet above the water to its target. The aeroplane would be wrecked in the explosion when it struck its target, just as a submarine torpedo now is. By the use of such a contrivance, said Lambert, a fleet blockading New York could send torpedo aeroplanes over Sandy Hook and sink ships in New York harbor.

That the Germans did not use such a device may be indicated by the fact that the report does not mention the destruction of the machine which torpedoed the Gona, but does say that the accompanying machine had a crew, who were captured.

The British Admiralty has announced that the method of launching torpedoes from seaplanes was first successfully practiced by British naval hydroplanes, which sank several ships in the Dardanelles during August, 1915.

SOCIETY

THE garden tea which Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Angert were to have given last Sunday at their place in the country on the Kent road, just off the Clayton road, was postponed until next Sunday on account of the bad weather.

The first of the Spring Flower Bridge parties will be given at Mrs. Angert's tomorrow afternoon. It is one of a series to be given at the country places near St. Louis and are for the benefit of the County Welfare Association and are among the most delightful social affairs on the spring calendar.

Mrs. Gerald M. Borden of New York, who was formerly Miss Lucile Papin, will arrive tomorrow evening to visit her mother, Mrs. Theophile Papin of 3768 Lindell boulevard.

Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins of 29 Lenox place has returned from a week's visit in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Dutilh Cabanne have announced the engagement of Mr. Cabanne's youngest sister, Miss Emilie Maffitt Cabanne, to Lieut. John Murray Jenkins Jr., U. S. A.

Miss Cabanne is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sarry Carr Cabanne and a niece of Maj. George W. Goode.

The date of the marriage depends upon military conditions, as Mr. Jenkins is in camp with his regiment, the Eleventh Cavalry, on the border, but it probably will take place in the early summer.

Miss Cabanne returned a short time ago from a visit to her sister, Mrs. Austin A. Parker and Capt. Parker in Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and has been visiting her niece, Miss Isabel and Doris Cabanne at 4515 Berlin avenue.

They will depart May 17 for their summer home in Alexandria, Minn., to join their parents who have just gone, and Miss Cabanne will return to Fort Leavenworth to stay with Mrs. Parker and will be married there.

Mr. Jenkins belongs to an old cavalry family. He is the son of Col. Jenkins of the Eleventh Cavalry, the grandson of Gen. James F. Wade, retired, and the nephew of Capt. John P. Wade. Mr. Jenkins' mother is Mrs. Charles C. Crosby of Ashabula, O., and will go to Leavenworth for the wedding.

Mrs. Jacob Fraley of Chicago is visiting her mother at 4—Laclede avenue.

A bridge party for members will be given at the St. Louis Woman's Club Wednesday afternoon. It will be preceded by a table d'hôte luncheon.

MAN WHO ENDED LIFE AT HOTEL JEFFERSON WAS A KANSAN

Body of Guest Who Registered From Los Angeles Identified as That of L. H. Baker of Lawrence.

A man who registered at the Hotel Jefferson April 22 at L. H. Brownlee of Los Angeles, Cal., and who killed himself with carbolic acid last Sunday, was identified today as L. H. Baker of Lawrence, Kan.

The identification was made by detectives through a photograph of Baker sent by members of his family, and the body will be sent to Lawrence for burial. A letter accompanying the photograph said that Baker was a traveling man, son of a merchant at Lawrence, and that his relatives had received no word from him in five years. The clew was given by the laundry mark, "L. H. Baker," on one of the dead man's shirts. A note left by him indicated that the act was due to financial reverses.

The police here had first wired to Los Angeles and found that one member of a Brownlee family there was unaccounted for. But the descriptions of the two men did not tally.

RUSSIAN MISSION COMING TO U. S.

Personnel Has Been Decided Upon, but Not Announced.

PETROGRAD, May 4.—A commission representing the Russian Provisional Government will depart in the near future for America to confer with American Government officials concerning the industrial, economic and financial relations of the two countries. Information to this effect was obtained by the Associated Press from a high official source.

The personnel of the commission has already been decided upon. They will be vested with the fullest powers, similar to those of the French and British commissions.

U. S. Best Debtpayer Among Leading Nations

Now Owes Under Billion Dollars

By STERLING E. EDMUNDS.

WITH an interest-bearing debt of only $971,000,000 the United States has occupied a distinctly enviable financial position among the great Powers. It has been almost alone in its adherence to the policy of paying off its public debt. The Revolutionary war debt amounted to $75,000,000. It had been reduced one half at the beginning of the war of 1812. The 1812 war debt of $68,000,000 had been reduced by $28,000,000 when the Civil war opened. The Civil War debt of $2,381,000,000 was cut to $585,000,000 by 1892. The Spanish-American war debt of $1,046,000,000 including the Panama Canal debt, has dropped to less than a billion.

The great war credit measure just enacted by Congress sends our debt up nominally to $7,971,000,000; actually, however, it may be said that the permanent increase in our public debt contemplated by the $7,000,000,000 authorization is only $2,000,000,000. Of the $7,000,000,000 provided, $5,000,000,000 are to be exchanged for a like amount of bonds of our allies, which, presumably, will be redeemed in 20 to 40 years; and $2,000,000,000 are in the nature of a one-year loan, anticipating revenues payable in the current year.

At the outbreak of the present war the public debt of Great Britain was $5,500,000,000, a reduction of $1,000,000,000 from the period of the Napoleonic wars. The wealth of Great Britain was estimated at $50,000,000,000. The debt of Great Britain today is $19,550,000,000, or nearly 25 per cent of her national wealth. The British daily expenditures have jumped from $2,750,000 previous to August, 1914, to over $25,000,000 a day.

Germany Raised Taxes Little.
The national wealth of Germany in 1914 was estimated at $50,000,000,000, with a bonded debt of $1,175,000,000. She has made successive loans of from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 every few months until her debt Nov. 1, 1916, stood at $15,200,000,000, and is today nearly $20,000,000,000. Germany did not greatly increase her taxes at the beginning of the war, as did England and France, but relied almost entirely on the issuance of bonds, which it was proposed to liquidate by indemnities levied upon her vanquished enemies. England, however, is now paying 20 per cent of her expenses out of current taxes.

France had an estimated wealth at the outbreak of the war of $50,000,000,000, with a debt of over $5,000,000,000, of which more than $2,000,000,000 represented indemnities paid the allies in 1815 and to Prussia in 1871. Yet France has borrowed $5,500,000,000 in addition to the current year.

The financial burdens created by wars of the past have invariably caused temporary statesmen to declare that each would end in bankruptcy. Thus the British experiences of the past are set down by an English historian: "A million a year will beggar us," said the parties to the 1763 treaty. "Two millions a year will grind the country to powder," was the cry of 1860. "Six millions a year and a debt of ten millions" exclaimed Swift, "the high allies have been the ruin of us."

A hundred and forty millions of debt! said Junius. "Well may we say that we owe Lord Chatham more than we shall ever pay, if we owe him such a load as this."

"Two hundred and forty millions of debt" cried all the statesmen of 1783, in chorus. "What abilities or what economy on the part of Ministers can save a country so burdened?"

"We know that if since 1783 no fresh debt had been incurred the increased resources of the country would have enabled us to defray that debt at which Pitt, Fox and Burke stood aghast, and that with much lighter taxation than that which we have actually borne. On what principle is it that when we see nothing but improvement behind us, we are to expect nothing but deterioration before us?"

The great indemnity of 5,000,000,000 francs imposed by Bismarck on France in 1871 was intended as a load under which France should be crushed for all time. The actual results were that France became thrifty and prosperous under it, while Germany suffered a financial collapse through inflation incident to her sudden enrichment.

THREE SALOONS ARE HELD UP

Men Locked Up in the Icebox at Two Places.

Two armed men ordered John J. Devaney and three customers into the icebox in Devaney's saloon, 338 Olive street, last night, and took $42 from the cash register. As they were departing, the robbers encountered Peter Brown of 2501 Lindell avenue, as he was about to enter the saloon, and took $12 from him. James June, bartender in a saloon at 317 Locust street, was locked in the icebox by two men, who took $33 from the cash drawer. A negro held up Fred Coerver in the latter's saloon, 111 North Jefferson avenue, and took $60 from him.

High Cost of Living Has All of Us Dazed; Even Umbrellas Are Now Being Raised

MANAGERS SHOULD BE PENNANT DRIVE BY JUNE-TEENINGS

Manager of Tigers Says Unexpected Detroit Reverses Are Due to Lack of Sunshine.

BATTING BADLY AFFECTED

But Heavy Artillery of the Freckled One's Squad Is Now Getting the Range.

By W. J. O'Connor.

Hugh Ambrose Jennings, of Cornell oughty-ought, who was a great ball player himself, before the Ford, issues a fair but imperious warning to "look out above." Hughes says he and his gang are coming up for air.

Just now they are in seventh place but the Junglers are having a little more "pep" every day. They're beginning to hit and that's what is making the other wildcats wild.

"If my team has won half its games by June 1, I will be satisfied to take my chances on winning the pennant," said Jennings today. "This league is so evenly balanced that any team at or near the 500 mark a month hence will be in fine position to start a pennant drive."

"We were off to a bad start, this year, because the weather has been such that we have had little or no practice. I don't believe we have had morning practice four times since we returned from Texas. That explains our slump. It also explains, in a way, why the pitchers are so effective this spring."

Batters Are Not Battling.

"I believe there have been three or four no-hit games. To my way of thinking poor batting, rather than good pitching, explains this. Give the ball players a little sunshine with the consequent morning work-outs and things will begin to shape themselves properly."

Giants Can't Beat Coombs.

The Cardinals are on the threshold of first place today because Jack Coombs yesterday succeeded in winning his eleventh straight game from the Giants. McGraw's men simply can't make the difference against Coombs, who has only one defeat against them in 27 games, going the other way. But last season's Coombs participated in 27 games, going the other way. But last season's Coombs participated in 27 games, going the other way. But last season's Coombs participated in 27 games, going the other way.

More Baseball Mysteries.

Cleveland finds Chicago an easy team to beat, while the Sox simply can't lose to the Browns, who have won five and lost one to Cleveland. Yesterday the Indians went to bat without a pitcher and were beaten, 1-0, going into the ninth. Then Roth was safe on Ribera's error. The next day, Cleveland, led by O'Neill, walked, Billings, for Lambert, scratched an infield hit, scoring Roth. Cleveland then scored the bases and Cloutier relieved Scott. Cloutier was wild and passed Chapman, forcing the winning run. This was Cleveland's fourth victory in six games against the Sox.

MAUPOME, FAILURE HERE, WINS INTERSTATE ANGLE LAURELS FOR CLEVELAND

Pierre Maupome, the Mexican, who for several years played in this city, and upon whom Charles Peterson spent hundreds of dollars developing him into a real three-cushion player, finally came through for Cleveland, by winning the championship in the Interstate League during the past season with 26 victories and 6 defeats. That's more than Maupome did for St. Louis and Peterson, although he did win the pennant in the league's infancy when it had only a short schedule.

Bob Carpenter of this city, and the new world's three-cushion champion, finished in fifth place with 21 victories and 11 defeats. This brought a prize of $100. Charles McCort, the player he beat for the highest honors in the angle game was seventh, with 20-12.

One new player in the circuit, Otto Releit of Pittsburgh, came through in good style, finishing in third place, with 23 victories, against nine defeats.

COMPARISONS

No two used cars are alike in quality, though they may be of the same make and model. The better informed buyer will compare the car he is considering with others of the same make and model. Out-of-town used-car dealers have said the best way to buy a used car is to see it, and back up your statement by ordering it at once.
